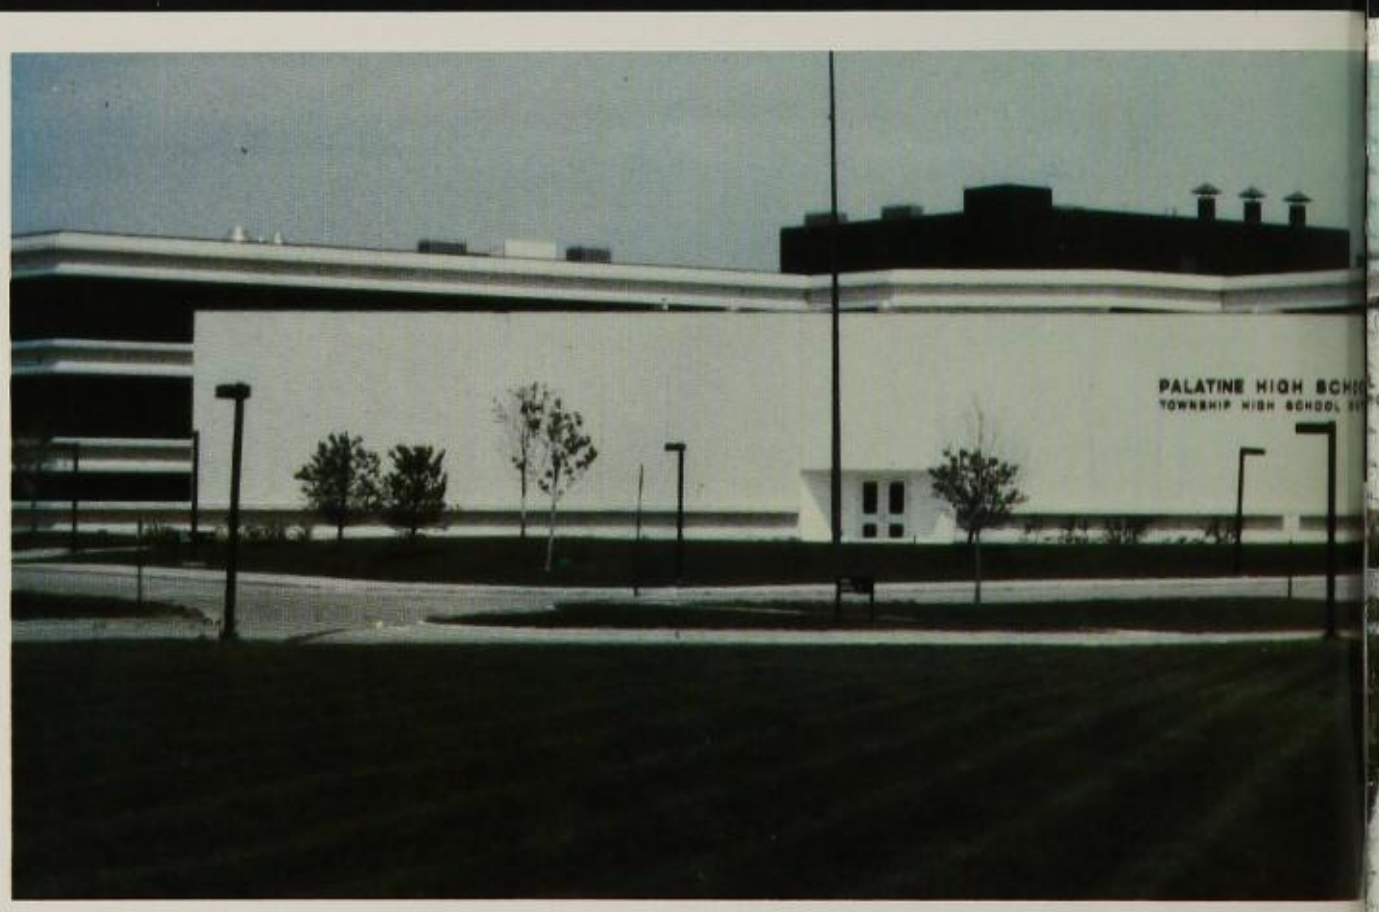
The color of Palatine High is new, but the spirit of Palatine has always been colorful. From the first location on Wood Street to the present site, the buildings that have been Palatine High School have had a spirit to match that of their inhabitants. The murals on the first floor hallways are the new color of the present building. Art students spent the summer capturing the spirit of Palatine in color, creating a permanent record of our colorful spirit.



Right: The black and white facade of the present building hides the colorful spirit inside. Bottom: Cutting Hall, completed in 1929, is still used for stage productions.

Left: The east wing of the old school is now the Park District offices. Right: Students were greeted by the new color as they entered the main hall.

Left: The gloomy skies suit the sense of doom felt in the courtroom. Right: Our very interested parents sold Pirate hats, mittens, and stadium cushions to raise money for school sports and activities. Bottom: Many members of the community showed their support for the Pirate football team.

The buildings that once served students now serve the community. The old Palatine High Schools are a Christian academy, community theatre, park district gym, village hall, police station, and Cook County Court House. The members of our community who use these facilities are reminded of the spirit of high school, and they support and motivate the spirit of the current students. Many members of the community are involved in the activities of Palatine High, just as students are involved in the activities of the community.

People are the spirit of Palatine High, and the diversity of the people provides the color. The administrators, faculty, and support staff each add their unique tone to the spirit of the school. With the help of the adults at school, we develop our own spirit.

Our spirit has developed into three primary groups. The spirit of the stage binds one group. Another is united in the spirit of competition and sportsmanship. The third group is joined by the spirit of acid rock and rebellion. There are also many of us whose spirit provides the transition between the primary associations.

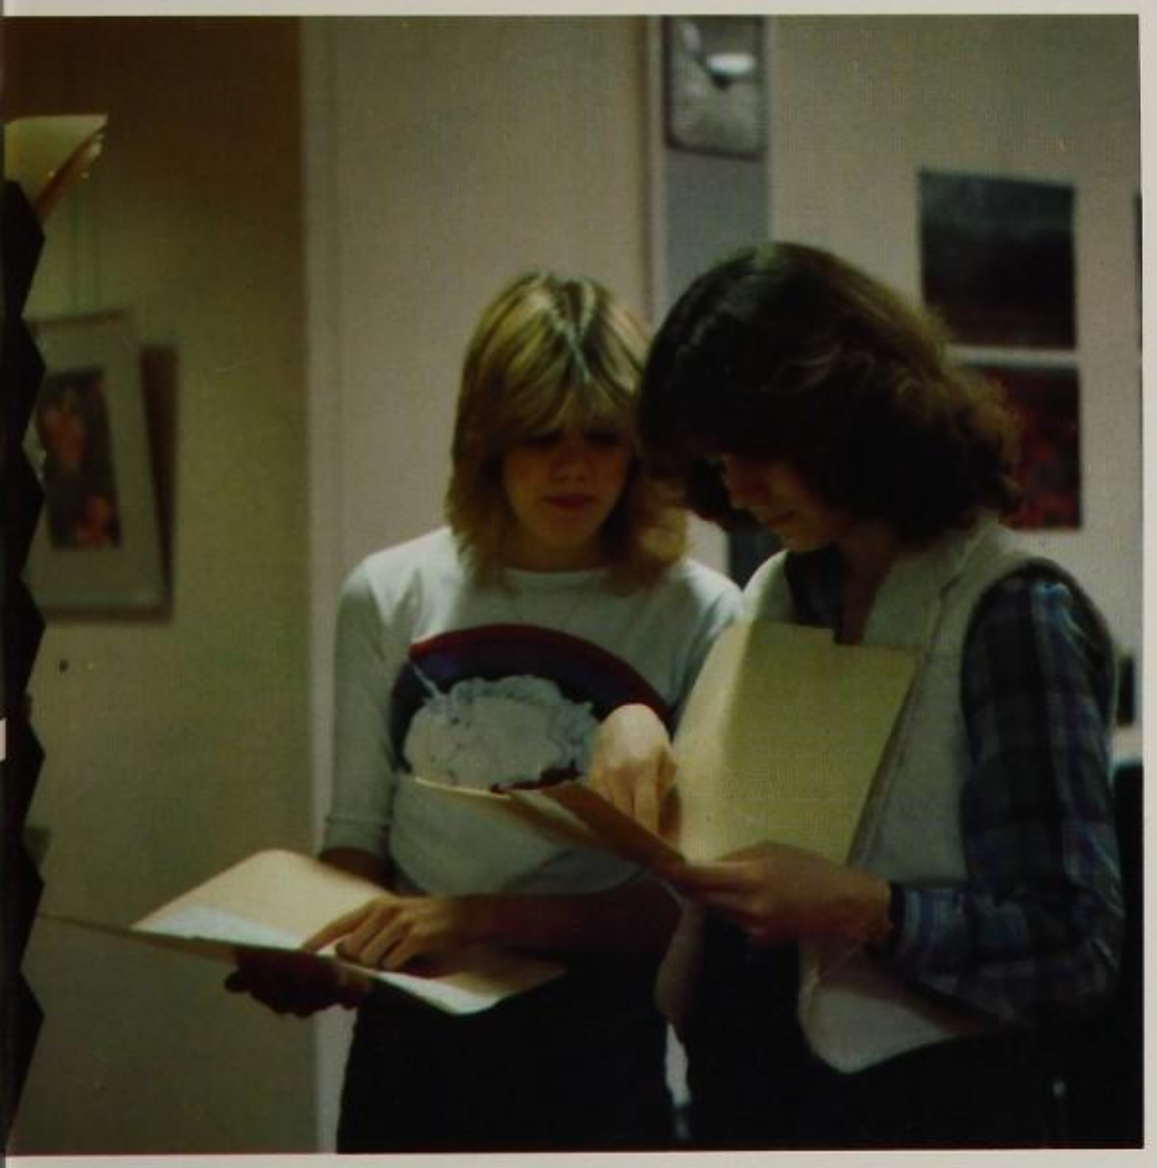
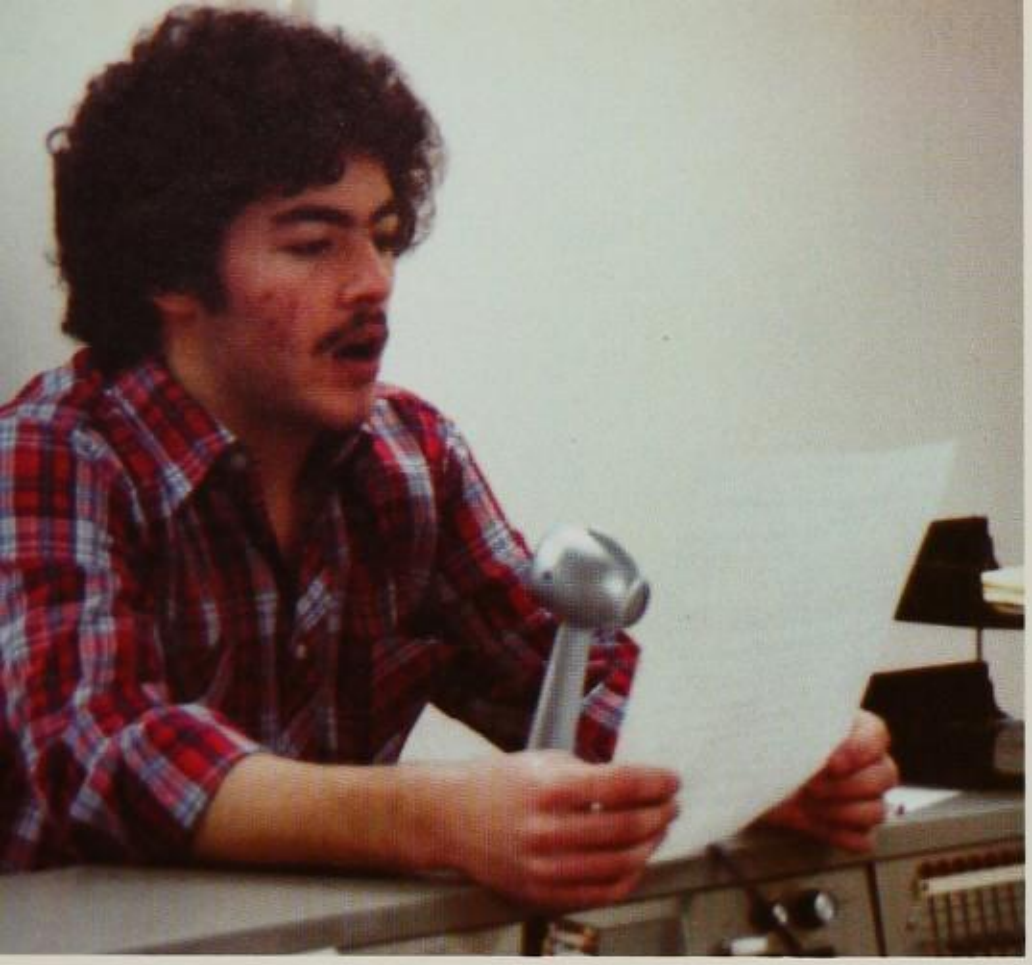
The primary groups blend together forming small social groups, teams, clubs, and friendships that highlight the binding spirit of each group. Every team, clique, and friendship tints the essence of Palatine High School.



Right: Jill Eunson and Jennifer Grealish search for an empty time slot in their counselors' busy schedules. Left: Chris Contino's trombone reflects Terry Merlihan playing his.



The spirit of each small group is based on the spirit of its members. Individuals are the soul of Palatine High School. Each student's personality enhances the school's colorful spirit.

Top: Greg Reynolds keeps students informed with the morning announcements. Middle: Pete Hayman is the perfect nerd during spirit week. Bottom: While most people restrict their visits to the smoking area on cold days to having a quick smoke, Jim Nelson finishes his lunch outside.

The spirit of the community, primary groups, teams, cliques, and individuals combine in a spectrum of colorful spirit at Palatine.

Student life

Students show their colorful spirit in their fashions and in their after school activities which include attending school sport events, dances, movies, and just having fun.

Left: The pep band dresses in high fashion for a basketball game. Middle: Beth Recar and Mary Olson wear matching sweaters. Right: Karen Olsson decorated her locker to make it more livable.

Rock 'n Roll still rules

Rock, as expected, emerged the victor in a music survey taken in December. The surveys were distributed to three levels of English classes in all four grades. Students were asked to list their favorite type of music, favorite current albums, and favorite current singles.

Although rock was the favorite type of music, new wave and country also received many votes. New wave and punk rock fans could be found at their lockers discussing the latest albums by Devo and Adam and the Ants. The country listeners favored Willie Nelson and Charlie Daniels.

The highlight of the rock concert season was the Rolling Stones tour which stopped at the Rosemont Horizon in November. Other hot concerts, including Journey, AC/DC, Foreigner, and Ozzie Osborne, caused many fans to struggle bleary-eyed through their classes the morning after.

CENTERFOLD
Does she walk? Does she talk?
Does she come complete?
My homeroom homeroom angel
Always pulled me from my seat
She was pure like snowflakes
No one could ever stain
The memory of my angel
Could never cause me pain
Years go by I'm lookin' through a girly magazine
And there's my homeroom angel
on the pages in-between.
CHORUS
My blood runs cold
My memory has just been sold
My angel is the centerfold
Angel is the centerfold
My blood runs cold
My memory has just just been sold
Angel is the Centerfold
Slipped me notes under the desk
While I was thinkin' about her dress
I was shy I turned away
Before she caught my eye
I was shakin' in my shoes
Whenever she flashed those baby-blues
Something had a hold on me
When angel passed close by
Those soft and fuzzy sweaters too magical to touch
To see her in that negligee is really just too much
CHORUS
It's okay I understand
This ain't no never-never land
I hope that when this issue's gone
I'll see you when your clothes are on
Take your car, Yes we will We'll take your car and drive it
We'll take it to a motel room
And take'em off in private
A part of me has just been ripped
The pages from my mind are stripped
On no, I can't deny it
Oh yea, I guess I gotta buy it!
CHORUS

    The Stroke — Billy Squire

Top: Escape, Freezeframe, and Don't Say No were listed in the top ten favorite albums in December. Bottom: The AC/DC concerts were well attended by Palatine students.

'Twas the night before finals
And all through the halls
Every fashion was stirring
For one and for all.
All the preppies were chatting
Filling their heads
With visions of Cheenos
And plaids made of red
The punkers were bopping
All through the night
With their leopard skin clothing
Almost everywhere in sight
On knickers, on Izods, on metallics and Oxfords,
On legwarmers, on headbands, on khakis and cords
And Calvin Klein cried as he sped away,
"Designer Jeans never die,
They simply fade away!"

Thank God it's Friday!!

The weekends are the highlight of students' social lives. The weekday pressures of homework, grades, and teachers are relieved.

There are many options for the PHS student, such as movies, parties, or dates. Students on dates do anything from going to a formal dinner to an informal night at a Palatine football or basketball game.

Going to the movies is a popular activity for groups of friends as well as for dates.

Parties compose the major part of the weekend activities. These parties occur wherever a group of people can get together for a good time.

What eats quarters and baffles minds? — VIDEO GAMES

The newest form of entertainment is video games. Whether playing at arcades or at home, many teenagers have become addicted to these computerized games.

Nearby arcades such as Galaxy and J. C. Scott's Video Invasion are the places where students spend their money playing Pac Man and Asteroids.

Home games, like Atari and Intellivision, were the biggest sellers this past Christmas, and the cartridges for these are still selling quickly.

Students work for cash or credit

Many PHS students opt to juggle both classes and a job. Some, like those involved in the work program, attend school for half the day, and then go to work. The majority of working students, though, carry a full schedule plus a job.

Palatine and other communities offer many job opportunities. Fast food places such as McDonald's and Wendy's provide students with ready employment.

Several PHS girls work as waitresses at Poppin' Fresh, K-Mart, and McDades and all the local grocery stores are also popular employers.

The reason for working is usually the same — the desire for money, either for immediate spending or for saving for the future.

College Spirit invades Palatine for a week

The vibrant spirits of students burst through in the unique activities of spirit week.

Activities held during lunch hours in the cafeteria included the highly coveted awards for the sexiest legs and best-dressed nerd. Goldfish swallowing, root beer chugging, and spirit links provided a competitive drive among classes as well as friends.

College T-shirt day, Greek day, nerd day, preppie day, and red and white day were the daily themes. The Powder Puff football game, in which the seniors were victorious over the juniors, added to the excitement.

The Royal Rally performances by flag corp, pom pon squad, cheerleaders, marching band, and orchesis captured the attention of the spirited crowd. The highlight of the evening was the suspenseful announcement of the Homecoming Queen and her Court. Maria Breen was crowned the 1981 Homecoming Queen. The Queen's Court included Janine Tillotson, Loreen Sieroslawski, Linda Wilson, and Gia Pistone.

Animal House revisited

To create the feeling of college living, the theme A Night at the Frat, was chosen for this year's Homecoming Dance.

The cafeteria walls were covered by college penants and posters which were collected from over one-hundred colleges and universities. Spotlighted scenes of fraternity house rooms helped create the image of college life. Records were strung from the ceiling and were designed on the wall to spell out those common fraternity words, "TOGA" and "DELTA".

A large mural of the Delta Sigma Chi frat house from the movie, Animal House hung above the band "Unity". Beer can pyramids and half barrels lay scattered around the room. Couples' names were also engraved on a large sheet of plywood to create a romantic effect

The faculty lounge was transformed to become O'Malley's Bar. Penants galore hung from the ceiling and favors of penants and beer mugs adorned the walls

'61 alumni come home

While present PHS students were enjoying the homecoming festivities, members of the class of '61 reminisced about their high school days. At a two day reunion held on October 2 and 3, the former classmates renewed friendships at their old hangout, the American Legion Hall, and at a formal dinner at the Hilton Hotel.

In November of 1980, a committee met to contact classmates and to schedule the activities. Out of 340 people, only 78 did not reply. About 170 persons attended each night.

Saturday evening, awards were given for various categories, including "Most Liberated Woman," and "Biggest Male Chauvinist Pig." Another more serious award was presented to a classmate presently in London, England, who is a lieutenant colonel in the British Army.

The weekend proved to be an enjoyable experience for all who attended.

Many firsts for council

Student Council, as usual, had a busy year. According to Mrs. Karen Kublank, it was a year of firsts.

The group sponsored an alumni breakfast. They also expanded Antics to a week long celebration in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the Palatine Relays.

Another innovative idea was charity week. Entitled "Have a Heart," the purpose was to raise money for the United Way of Palatine. Activities included the donkey basketball game, and contests deciding which class had the most heart, and the best couple of each class.

Council also chose a student and teacher of the month.

For the first time in five years, a hospitality night called "Octoberfest" was sponsored. Student Council members from the north east district, NED, enjoyed an evening of music, movies, and even swimming. The evening turned out to be a success for all.

The council officers are Denise Andre, president; Rich Schmitt, vice-president; Laura Franz, treasurer; Sue Soja, secretary.

Have a heart

. . . was the theme of the Student Council sponsored Charity Week, held from February 8 through 12. During this week students raised over $1200 to aid the United Way of Palatine.

A donkey basketball game was held on Monday night. The games included freshman/sophomore team vs. junior/senior teams, and the faculty team vs. the Wood Street Blues (Palatine Police Department). The junior/senior and faculty teams were victorious in their respective games.

Several other contests also were held during the week. Seniors emerged the class with the most heart by purchasing hearts for a nickel each. Also members of each class voted for their cutest couple. Winners were Seniors Chris Contino and Anne Skoglund, Juniors Glenn Jensen and Lisa Dow, Sophomores Tim Ritt and Barb Boe, and Freshmen Brian Abry and Laura Kraus. Jenny Kuhn won 2037 Jelly Bellies when she correctly guessed the number of candies in a jar.

Other activities included a bake sale, a flower sale, and a marriage license and divorce decree sale.

Service groups improve school

Although many students complain about problems at the school, several groups are doing something about them.

Presidents Club is the backbone of many school activities. One such activity was the V.I.P. Day which gave students an opportunity to show their appreciation of the faculty and staff. Presidents Club also held a canned food drive to aid needy families. The group meets every other week to discuss leadership problems and other club activities.

Roundtable, an organization of students, teachers and administrators, meets bi-monthly. Its purpose is to think of ways to improve the school. Christie Price, a junior, feels that in the three years that she has been a member, Roundtable has made significant contributions to the school, such as the supply and change machines in the attendance office, and more convenient school store hours.

The Beautification Committee was instrumental in adding some of the colorful spirit to our school. They were in charge of the murals painted last summer, and are planning to paint a new hallway each year. Other projects include adding plants to the media center and helping with the new landscape.

Turnabout truly a Celebration

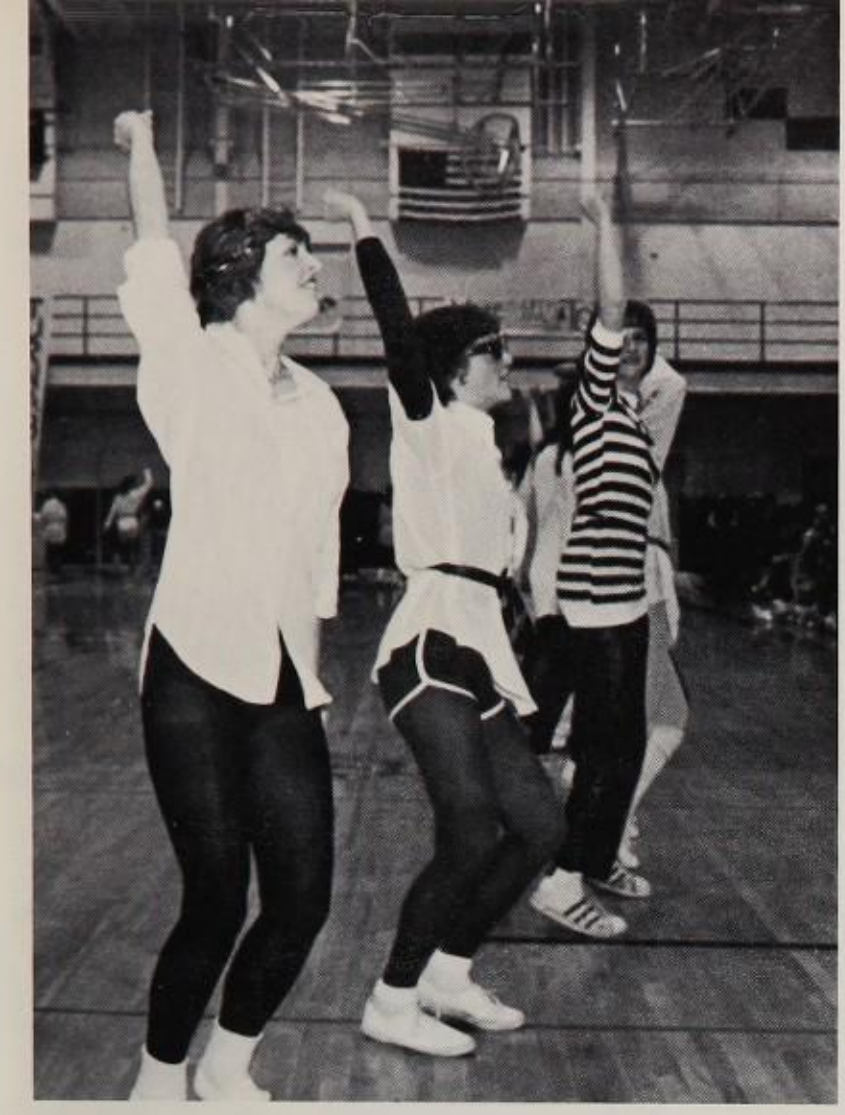
Celebration was the theme of the March 20th Turnabout dance. The theme was illustrated by the creative work of the decoration committee. The cafeteria was strewn with colorful streamers and balloons. The walls of the faculty lounge were covered with clown decorations and party favors. Young children dressed up as clowns served refreshments. Music was provided by the rock group Unity.



John Mosak is Mr. Irresistable

March 18 marked the annual Turnabout Rally. Senior girls performed their rendition of We Got the Beat by the Go Go's. The ever-popular Big Apple Gang, a group of senior guys, wowed the crowd with their version of Physical. Orchesis energetically danced to the popular song Fame. The Triad also performed, adding spirit to the assembly. The high point of the rally was, of course, the announcement of Mr. Irresistible. Senior Brian Pape, Junior Mike Hogan, Sophomore Gerry Dwyer, and Freshman Tom Schager were chosen as attendants to Mr. Irresistible John Mosack.

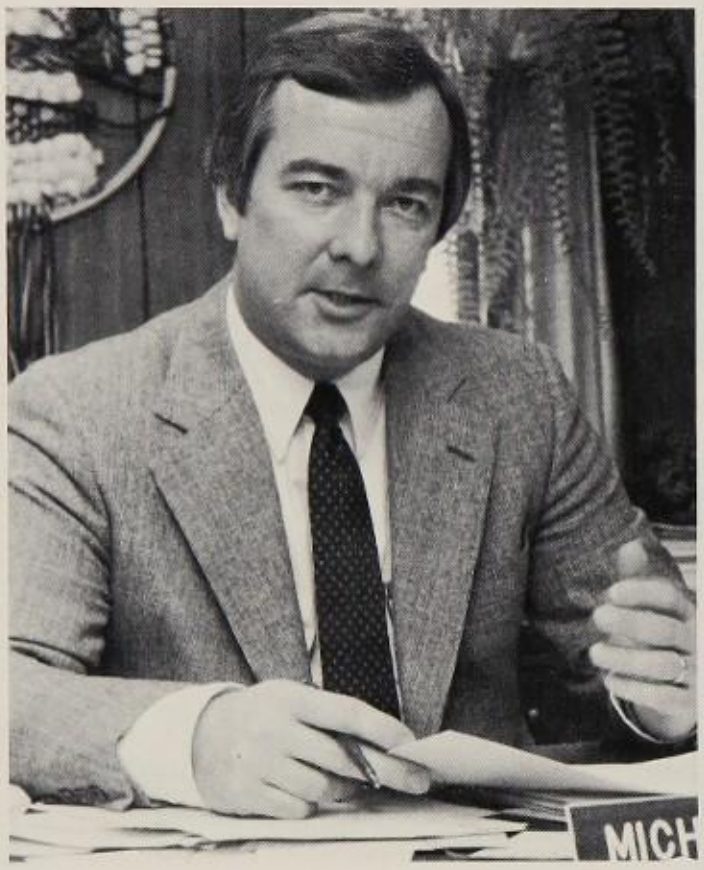
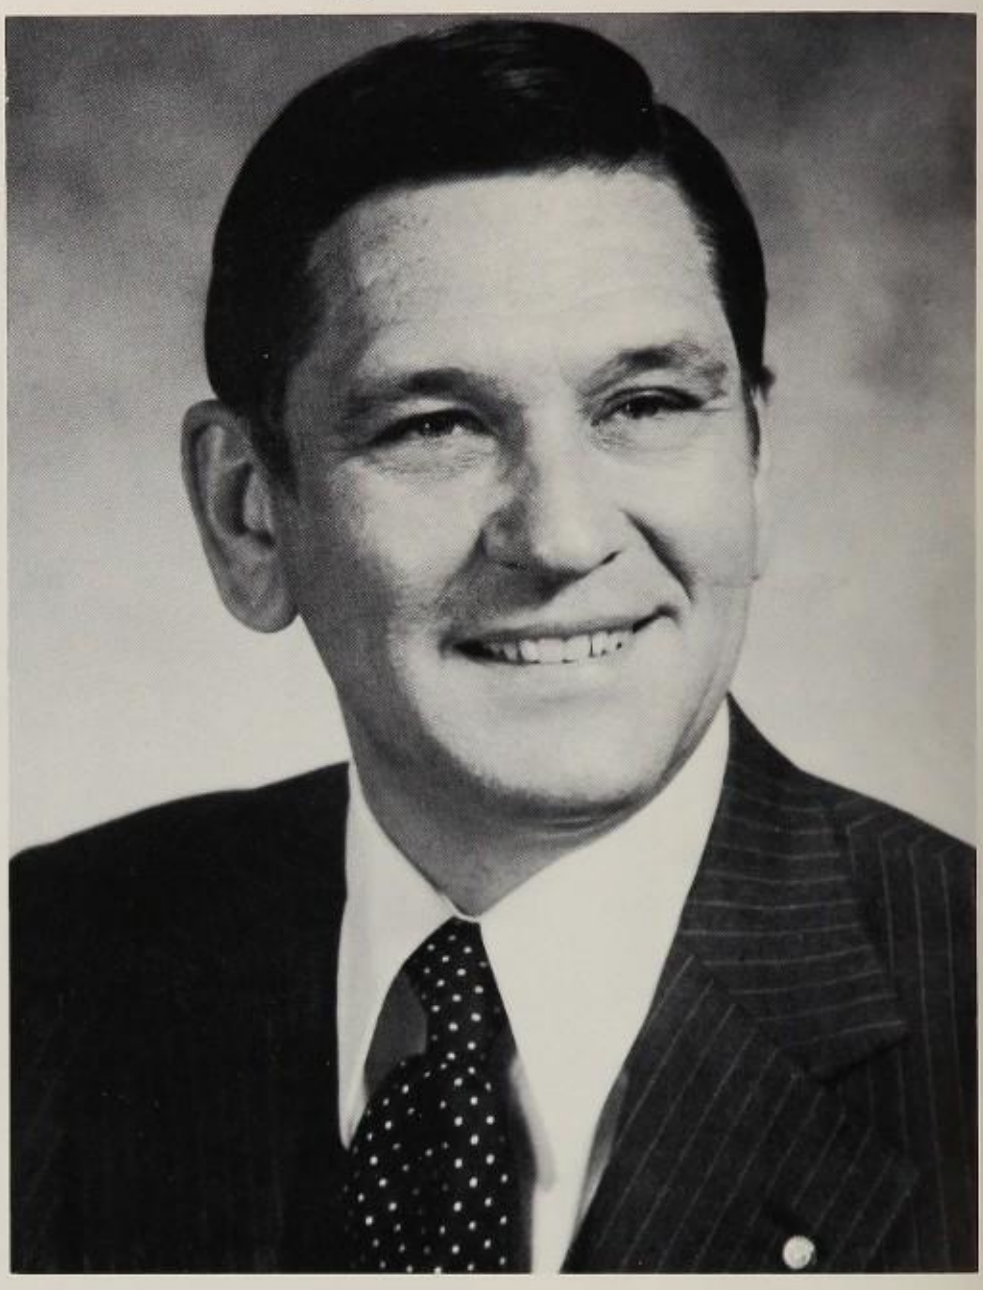
211 proud of its strong, basic curricula

Left: Assistant Superintendent Michael Hyde is responsible for planning, organizing, and directing the business operations of the district. Right: Superintendent Richard C. Kolze celebrates his 25th year with High School District 211; Dr. Kolze became superintendent in 1970. Bottom: The District 211 Administrative Center is located at 750 South Roselle Road in Palatine.





District 211 entered the 1880s as a one-room high school with a handful of students. We now are progressing into the 1980s with five high schools that each can house between 2,300 and 3,000 students.

The times — and our young people — have changed. Each school has expanded and the opportunities and activities available to each student have increased. But the emphasis on a strong, basic curricula has remained.

In fact, the Class of 1982 is the first to graduate under new requirements passed by the Board of Education four years ago. These requirements raised the number of credits needed for graduation from 16 to 18 and required a fourth year of English. Last summer, the Board voted to add a third year of math or science to the requirements. Implementing a testing program for minimum essential skills in the areas of mathematics and English also was a recent change.

As a result, more students are spending more time at school and are taking more classes. The percentage of college-bound students has risen and the number of students not graduating has decreased.

The foresight and planning used in educational policy-making also guide financial decisions. Careful management by the Board of Education has allowed the tax rate to decrease over the past several years. A healthy financial condition coupled with a quality educational program has been a source of great pride for District 211.

The Board of Education realizes that today's high school students are the leaders and residents of tomorrow. The students in District 211 are offered the opportunity to receive the best training available for these roles.

Administrators promote stricter policies

A stricter atmosphere greeted both the teachers and students in August.

More supervisors roamed the halls, and attendance procedures were tightened. The hallways became non-option, and much to the dismay of the students a new tardy policy was instituted. Students could only be tardy three times a semester.

Mr. Jack Gaza replaced Mr. Maddox who was transferred to Schaumburg High School.

A principal's work is never done

Many people do not realize the enormous job of the principal, Mr. Leonard Newendorp, who has been at PHS since 1959. Mr. Newendorp has spent the last 23 years improving the school. He describes his job as working through the staff to provide effective teaching and learning for the students.

In addition to long-term planning, Mr. Newendorp works with various committees and groups. The V.I.P. Club, Roundtable, and the Faculty Planning Committee are just a few of these organizations.

He also periodically meets with the Executive Board of the Student Council, the District 211 Board, and the State Board of Education, where problems with the school and education are dealt with.

One area in which Mr. Newendorp has done extensive work is the improvement of the grounds and the interior of the school.

During the late winter and early spring of each year, Mr. Newendorp and his staff attack the monumental tasks of developing a budget and scheduling students in classes for the next year. Mr. Newendorp also oversees all the administrative hirings and firings, and the evaluation of the teachers.

PPS provides needed services

Mr. Richard Elke, director of Pupil Personel services, is new to PHS.

Along with its new director, PPS has a new look. After Christmas many students did not find their counselors in the same offices as before.

Although counseling is an important aspect of PPS, many other services are offered. They include physical and occupational therapy for the handicapped students and special services for students with learning disabilities and behavioral disorders.

Other departments include Health Services, Special Education, and the newly acquired English as a Second Language. A psychologist and social worker are also available to students.

Media Center caters to all

The Palatine High School Media Center is one of the best equipped in our district. In some ways it is better equipped than the Palatine Public Library.

Mr. Paul Everhart, the new head librarian, says, "Our collection of books has a lot of depth." Mr. Everhart feels that the Media Center's strengths are in their art and American history collections.

Over the year, students have seen paperback books brought into circulation. Also, house plants have been added to warm the atmosphere in the Media Center.

Mrs. Klinka, the new assistant librarian, came to Palatine from Maine North where she was head librarian when it closed. Under Mr. Everhart's leadership rules were relaxed, allowing more students to enjoy the library.

AV brings outside to students

The Audio-Visual department brings the outside world to the students in the classroom in the form of films, filmstrips, slides, and transparencies. According to Mr. Steve Sullivan, head of A.V., teachers have access to over 800 titles between the school and district libraries.

Also part of AV is a television studio. Here students, usually from the English and foreign language departments, videotape their own programs.

In order to keep this department running efficiently, 15 students help out during their free periods.

The Career Resource Center contains enough information to allow students to make intelligent decisions regarding their future.

Introductory booklets and curriculum catalogues from universities, colleges, junior colleges and trade schools are available for students who choose to pursue further education. The center is equipped with computers that store information about schooling and careers. Also, about 130 colleges and universities send representatives to the Career Resource Center during the year to discuss what they have to offer with students.

Mr. Jim Sindelar, the director of the Career Resource Center, organizes a career day at PHS every other year. The entire student body has the opportunity to listen to three professionals in fields that they may be interested in pursuing. Mr. Sindelar invited PHS graduates to return to the Career Resource Center over Christmas break to discuss their experiences with interested students. Mr. Sindelar also organizes pre-college testing.

Students who do not choose to continue their education after high school can use the resources to learn about job opportunities and may obtain assistance in locating a job.

More than just an honor society

Study and involvement are rewarded by membership in NHS.

National Honor Society is a service club which meets on the first Monday of every month in the faculty dining room. Service projects include tutoring students in math, science, English and foreign languages; making center pieces for the dining room tables at Plum Grove Nursing Home; and changing the Pirate marquee.

The group also selects the Senior of the Month and a Senior of the Year to recognize the achievements of outstanding seniors. Flowers also were donated by the society to decorate the gym during the girls' state gymnastics meets.

The major project of the group, however, is planning the induction ceremony for new members. Members are selected on the basis of academic achievement, character, and school and community service. Members are expected to retain their high level of achievement, and membership regulations are strictly enforced.

On Our Own Club offers assistance to its members

On Our Own Club gives physically handicapped students an opportunity to air out their problems through discussion with each other. Miss Kathy Walsh, Mr. Bob Ingraham, and Mr. Bob Carroll oversee this group.

Also, On Our Own Club has fund raising activities, such as the flower sale at Easter. The club is saving up money to buy sports wheel chairs.

The group has social events as well. They plan on going camping. This year's officers are President Linda Feeley, Vice President Phyliss Lettieri, and Secretary Nasser Abdallah.

Individual attention makes special ed a special place

The Special Education department caters to students who have learning disabilities, behavior disorders, or physical handicaps.

The key to the special ed program is individualization. The staff provides academic and emotional support in a warm atmosphere.

The staff gets involved in every aspect of their students' lives. They talk to parents, get the students involved in extracurricular activities, and help them find jobs.

Another phase of the department is the Close Encounters program. First semester a group went to Wisconsin to go through an obstacle course designed to teach the students to trust one another. In January the group went tubing.

Writing stressed in English classes

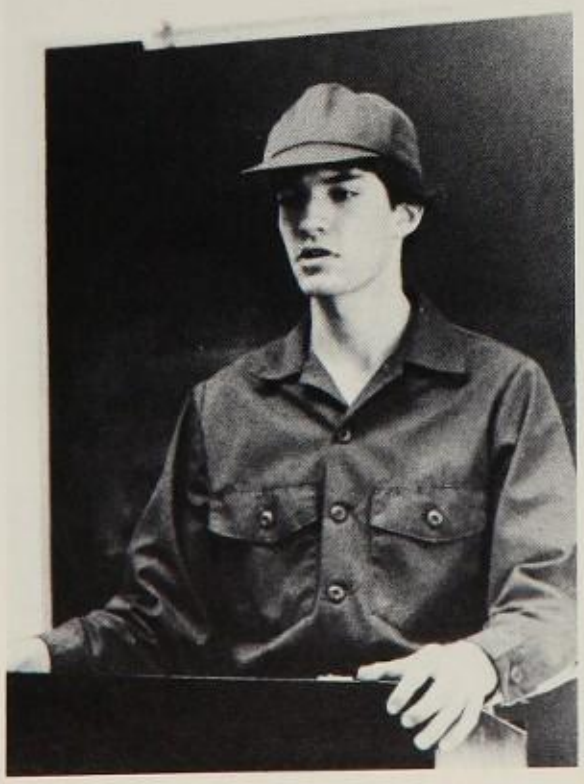
Ask any student what he remembers most about English, and his answer would probably be the essays.

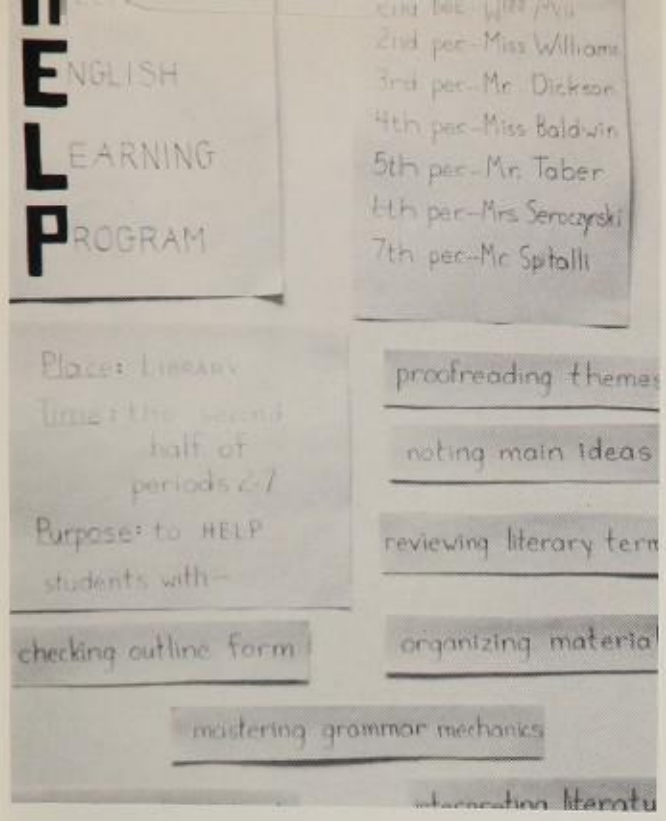
The second year into the sequential writing program found students writing six essays a semester.

Miss Leslee Johnson, the new English department chairman feels that the variety of English classes offered students a diversity of interesting and challenging classes.

Freshman and sophomore English classes last one year while most of the junior and senior classes last one semester, including courses such as Film Study, Advanced Reading, Expository Composition, American Classics, and Science Fiction and Fantasy. A new class, College Composition, was added to the curriculum. Students opted to receive college credit from the University of Illinois.

The English department is the largest department in the school, consisting of 23 teachers, many of whom also coach or sponsor clubs after school hours.





H.E.L.P. is here!

Finally there is a place where students can go to get help with their English assignments. H.E.L.P., the Helpful English Learning Program, is located in the media center and is staffed by English teachers the second half of periods two through seven.

The center was frequented most by seniors working on research papers for Expository Composition; however, underclassmen also received help on grammar, outlines, and essay assignments.

Unfortunately, the program is in jeopardy of being cancelled due to the limited number of students who used the center and the need for English teachers to man supervisory duties.

Mrs. Maureen Serocyznski helps Senior Beth Sauer organize an assignment for Expository Composition.

Spotlight: Bigger and better than ever!

The Spotlight staff spent many long hours trying to meet next day deadlines. While other students were attending basketball games, the Spotlight staff worked on laying out pages, cropping pictures, and writing copy.

Editor-in-Chief Leslie Klis, senior, believes that this yearbook is one of the best and really reflects the spirit of the student body.

The Spotlight had a new advisor, Mrs. Marci Pearlman. "Publishing a yearbook is a lot of work, and I am especially pleased with the record number of dedicated staff members who stuck with us through our last deadline. This devotion is extremely unusual," she said.

Sixteen pages were added to the book in place of color in the senior section. "I felt that our money would be better spent on increasing the coverage than on color senior portraits. We also used more graphic art and used a specialized four-color cover with the money we saved," Klis said.

Student Life Editor Rosemary Adams, a junior, said, "Although working on staff was a lot of hard and sometimes frustrating work, it was really lots of fun."

The Cutlass projected a new and more modern image by changing the masthead and the number of columns in the paper. The Cutlass prepared fourteen issues, approximately one every two-to-three weeks.

This year's editorial staff was better prepared for their duties by attending a two week journalism seminar at Indiana University. "It was really fun, but also a lot of work," says Editor-in-Chief Deborah Pankey.

"This year's Cutlass staff was well prepared for their editorial duties," says sponsor Virginia Brintlinger. "Also, they have great plans for the future, including more and better issues."

Creativity published in Expressions

Expressions is the PHS literary magazine. It consists of students' original poetry, short stories, art, and music.

Each year the editors and editorial staff select the best contributions received to be published. Each contribution is rated on a scale from one to ten based on creativity, form, and originality.

The magazine, which is twenty pages in length, had the largest staff ever this year. "I think that this year's magazine really reflects the creativity of the student body at PHS," says Editor-in-Chief Patty DePuye. "I'm very happy with it."

Languages prepare students for college

The foreign language department offers three languages: German, French, and Spanish. After completing two years of French or Spanish, students are offered several one semester courses. They include composition, conversation, and assorted literature courses. This program is unique to Palatine High School.

The German program consists of four levels of German, and German 5 for accellerated students.

Miss Meridee Masterson, department chairperson, trying to increase student interest in an already popular program, said that students who have taken languages in high school usually do not have to take these courses in college. Sometimes students can earn college credit as well.

Foreign language is growing more popular with the increasing need for a second language in many careers.

Clubs promote international understanding

The purpose of the Foreign Exchange Club is to promote international understanding among students. The club welcomes exchange students and tries to make them feel comfortable with our culture.

Palatine has hosted three full time exchange students. In the fall Valeria Benfica, a Brazilian girl, was here through Rotary International. Adolf Rebbelbush, another Brazilian, also lived in Palatine. Gry Ramsteud, a Norwegian also spent the year here. Also this spring, a group of German and French students visited our school for about seven weeks.

The German Club is sponsored by Mr. Dean Thompson. The club dined at Hans Bavarian Lodge. The club also went on a field trip to see the highly acclaimed German movie, "The Tin Drum."

English as a Second Language (ESL) has a club for students who are new to our school and country. The club's function is to help the students feel comfortable in our culture.

Social Science broadens views

Social science classes increase students' awareness.

History classes, including World History and American History, enlighten students about the past. Social Science Survey, a required course, informs seniors about the present conditions of the world and nation. Many juniors and seniors take psychology to learn about themselves.

The social science department joins with the English department in offering American Studies to juniors. The course combines the American history and English requirements that juniors must meet. Another inter-disciplinary course is Social Implications of Biology, which examines the morality of certain biological developments.

Class projects and oral presentations make social science classes interesting for students.

Model UN Club: students in politics

The Model UN Club simulates the United Nations. PHS is just one school of many throughout Illinois and other midwestern states that participates in the model UN at George Williams College in Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

Delegates representing the Soviet Union and China are being sent by PHS. The model UN is run just like the real UN. Delegates submit resolutions and take part in debates.

The students are very involved in the politics. Some topics that have been discussed are Poland, nuclear warfare, and preservation of wildlife.

Increased requirements affect science dept.

The Science department has a diverse curriculum. Classes include biology, physical science, earth science, chemistry, physics, geology, astronomy and plant science. Many students enjoy the variety of classes offered, and often take four years of science.

An increase in the graduation requirement will probably affect the enrollment in science classes. The class of '85 is now required to take an extra unit of math or science.

Math expands use of computers

While the size of the computer room doubled, there is still not enough room.

Mr. Dorseth, department chairman, said that computers can be used frequently in classes to help students visualize mathematical properties, and he hopes to increase the number of computers in the school.

Many students have taken advantage of a college advanced-placement calculus course. Some students have received as much as three-quarters to two semesters of college credit by doing well on the placement test.

Math and computer clubs teach skills

The math team gives students an opportunity to test their skills against other students.

Math team competes with other schools at four levels: algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. Competitions are both written and oral. All of the advanced math problems are timed tests.

Math team has done very well in their third year of competition, defeating many schools. The only oral competitor on the team, Jim McGregor, has won three first place awards this year, the best record in the team's history.

Interest in computers is encouraged by the computer club. In the club students learn how to program and operate school-owned Apple computers. The computer room was recently expanded to twice its orginal size.

Railroad & chess clubs have fun

Railroad club members enjoy the meticulous, careful work involved in constructing a complete railroad layout.

The club has been working on a 96 square foot layout since the '77-'78 school year. The scenery was finished this year, leaving the wiring to be completed next year. A 32 square foot addition to the layout is also planned.

Mr. Ken Spengler, sponsor, plans to take the club, mostly freshmen, to visit railroad museums.

Chess club is not only for the expert player; it is mainly for the beginner who wants to learn about the game.

Mr. Paul Everhardt, sponsor, tries to promote an enjoyable learning atmosphere for the club. Members usually compete with one another, and there are a few meets against other schools.

Preparing for outside world

The Business department is helping students prepare for the outside world.

One way this is accomplished is that all students must take Consumer's Education in order to graduate. In this class students learn to handle checking accounts, insurance, housing, taxes, banking, and financing.

Business enrollment has increased because such classes as accounting, typing, and computer programming are very popular.

Woods proves profitable

Drafting, woods, metals, small engines, auto maintenance, architecture, and electronics meet the needs of many students — those wishing to pursue an industrial ed-related career or those simply enjoying a hobby.

A few of the courses, such as woods, may even be lucrative. Around Christmas time woods students were seen selling their mass-produced wooden toys.

Architecture students actually build models of homes they've designed, while electronics classes repair televisions and build circuits.

Projects are displayed in the showcase in the industrial ed hallway.

Home Ec provides domestic experiences

Students in Home Ec captured the Christmas spirit when they made and decorated gingerbread houses and gave them to charity.

Guest speakers on subjects such as mental health, family living, and stretch-and-sew highlighted many classes. Cooking classes enjoyed demonostrations on making omelets and souffles.

Some classes also took field trips. The interior design class took a trip to the Merchandise Mart where they learned about designs. Clothing classes took tours of unusual fabric stores, and high-class clothing stores in Water Tower Place.

Hom Ec also sponsors H.E.R.O.

HERO, CWT provide work training

HERO, one of the Cooperative Educational Programs, is a two-year program for juniors and seniors. HERO, or Home Economics Related Occupations, emphasizes such things as health care, public services, and clothing. Classroom instruction includes such things as money management, and how to apply for a job. Along with the classroom studying, students hold jobs in such places as florist shops, hospitals, and day care centers.

The Cooperative Work Training Program is for students who are 16 or older. In the classroom they study math, communications, and other general skills needed for getting a job. Some students work in grocery stores, and in construction.

Students benefit from ICE, OE, DE

The Cooperative Vocational Education Programs provide practical learning experiences for the students, and help them face responsibilities in the working world. These programs are worth two credits: one for the classroom study, and one for the work experience. The main goals of these programs are to help each student develop vocational skills, to provide opportunities for students to use these skills, and to prepare students for the work world.

Industrial Cooperative Education (ICE) is a two year program that involves training students for an occupation that they are considering. Some examples are auto mechanics, dry cleaning, drafting, and construction work. The classroom studies include general safety, money management, and related topics.

Office Education (OE) is a one year program. These students are required to have taken business courses before enrolling in OE.

Distributive Education (DE) is a two year program for juniors and seniors who are interested in careers relating to marketing goods and services. The training these students receive from their jobs includes selling, advertising, and customer services. The classroom education received includes instruction related to each student's job.

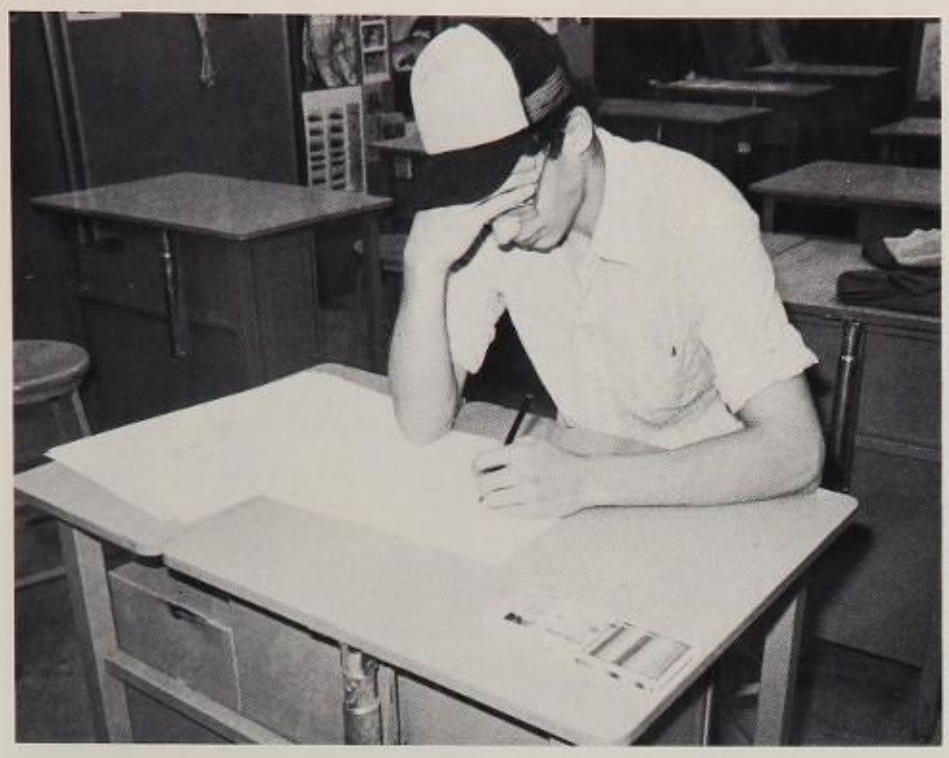
Art nurtures creative talent



Approximately 14% of the Palatine student body takes art classes.

The initial art course is Art Fundamentals and Design. In this class, students learn basic skills. Some of these are shading, perspective, drawing, calligraphy, clay, and painting.

After taking this class, a wide scope of classes is offered which deal with advanced drawing, sculpture, ceramics, and painting.

PHS also has a photography program. Photo I stresses basic photography skills. Photo II deals with the creative aspect of photography.

Every year, selected art students participate in scholastic art competition. If the project is accepted, it is possible for the artist to win a scholarship.

In the spring, art teachers pick their students best works. These projects are displayed at Woodfield, as well as at the Palatine High School Art Show.

The photo club provides instruction in 35mm photography and dark room facilities. The art club gives students guidance to increase their skills. The club investigates many art forms and many members enter their work in competitions.

Murals exemplify colorful spirit

Over the summer, a miraculous metamorphosis changed the stark white walls of PHS forever.

Under the direction of Mr. Fred Welborn, art department chairman, nine students painted the first floor hallways in assorted designs and color. The ten students included Perry Pollock, class of '81; Oksana Haliu, Maura Scallon, Laura Franz, Julie Ossler, Terry Miller, Rob Puhl, class of '82; and Rachel Gibson and Gordon Greb, class of '83.

Plans are being made to complete the hallways in the gym, home ec, and industrial ed wings.

Certainly the first floor hallways exemplify the colorful spirit of Palatine High School.

PE caters to all

Physical Education provides an opportunity for students to let their tensions out through such classes as basketball, ping-pong, archery, frisby, and even coed wrestling.

For students with injuries, there is adaptive PE. Here students get exercise despite their injuries. Physical therapy is available for students with limited motor ability.

The ever-popular Driver's Ed courses, classroom and "behind the wheel," are also under the auspices of the Physical Education department as are the health classes.

The music department has many facets.

The instrumental facet consists of the varsity band, concert band, marching symphonic band, pep band, and jazz bands. Many students also participate in brass and woodwind ensembles.

The bands give approximately three concerts a year, plus the pep band performs at all the basketball games and at the pep assemblies, while the jazz band plays at different dinner clubs.

Another instrumental organization is the District 211 Orchestra. Several PHS students participate in this extracurricular group. The orchestra planned a trip to Urbana, Illinois where their performance was critiqued by professional musicians.

The vocal facet is also a great part of the Music Department. It includes the Girls' Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Chorale, Choir, and Madrigals. These students perform about three times a year and attend vocal contests.

Performing Arts

Changing with the seasons

They march to the sound of different tunes and do an excellent job of it. The 68 members of Symphonic/Marching band start practicing the weekend before school starts in the fall.

The band is under the direction of Mr. Thomas Trimborne with the help of Miss Raeleen Horn. Marching band performs at all home football games, the Royal Rally, the Homecoming parade, and this year they marched in the Memorial Day parade.

When marching season is over, members change from their spats and marching uniforms to formal suits and skirts. Symphonic band has three concerts throughout the year.

The winter concert was a memorial to the 100th anniversary of the birth of the late Percy Grainger. The majority of the music of the program, including "Lincolnshire Posy" and "Children's March" was written by the famous composer. They also do a junior high school tour in May.

Symphonic band practices during fourth and fifth hours. After marching season, fifth hour is used for Brass Choir practice, Variety show band, and musical band.

Jazz ensembles improvise rhythms

Besides Varsity, Concert, and Symphonic Bands, which are taught as classes, students are given the option to audition for a jazz ensemble.

As in past years, Jazz Ensemble I is composed of select members from Symphonic Band. "This was the first year that we have had a working second jazz ensemble," says Director Miss Raeleen Horn, "and they did very well. In Jazz Ensemble II, students gained experience for the higher group and learned jazz techniques."

Jazz Ensemble I participated in the Northshore Jazz Festival on January 30, and they performed on a junior high tour. Both groups also play in the Fall and Spring band concerts. The bands prepared for these concerts by rehearsing once a week after school from 3:30 to 4:45.

Bands add spirit to games, productions

Not only is school spirit found in the cheerleaders, poms, and flags, but it is found in the members of pep band.

Pep band is one of the smaller organizations in the music program. Pep band performs chiefly at basketball games and at most pep assemblies. Their music accompanies pom-pon and flag routines. They practice during fifth hour and are under the direction of Miss Raeleen Horn and Drum Major Chris Contino.

Pep band consists of many interested students from Symphonic band who want to encourage school spirit. Along with the wide variety of pep music they play, the members dress up to make each of their performances unique. They dress in anything from hats and raincoats to suits and long dresses.

For the first time, members of Varsity and Concert bands played at two basketball games each. This helped them gain experience for future years.

Making up another group are the best players of Symphonic band who are invited to play at the Variety Show, the spring musical, and open house. The stage band for Variety Show, consisting of twenty-seven members, rehearsed weekly for three months.

The Musical Wind Ensemble is an even smaller group of only seventeen members. This group provides back-up music and accompanies choral performances at the musical.

Hard work pays off for Varsity, Concert Bands

Varsity and Concert bands are the stepping stones toward the higher bands and extra curricular bands.

Varsity band which is directed by Mr. Thomas Trimborne and is composed of freshmen, practices seventh hour everyday. Mandatory private lessons are given to each student once a week. Lessons are also given to members of the Concert band, which is composed of primarily sophomores and juniors and is directed by Miss Raeleen Horn. Both bands perform at three concerts a year.

With the combined efforts of each band member and the leadership of the conductors, these groups are able to contribute to the achievements of Palatine High School.

Choir performs at University of Illinois

Directed by Mr. Dave Reiser, the choir sings everything from caccini madrigals to Christopher Cross pop-tunes. Choir faithfully rehearsed every sixth hour. Being a member of Choir gives students experience and enables them to perform in Palatine productions.

Besides the Holiday Concert, Pop-Concert, and Spring Concert, Choir performed at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana and also performed for Barrington High School.

Madrigal: the choir that swings

The Madrigal singers consist of nine female and seven male vocalists. Meeting weekly, they prepare for a long Christmas season of entertaining clubs, such as Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions.

Madrigal is also a swing choir and graces the stage in Variety Show and at competitions. Members of Madrigal are selected from choir.

Primary vocal groups strive for perfection

Mixed Chorus is the combination of what used to be the Girls' Chorus and Mixed Chorus.

Mixed Chorus is composed of primarily freshmen. The members rehearse third hour, and develop skills which will help them audition for the secondary vocal group, Chorale. These singers, mostly sophomores, begin their day by practicing first hour. Both groups, under the direction of Mr. David Reiser, perform at three concerts a year.

Chorale Ensemble is composed of twelve members from Chorale, and they perform in Variety Show. Selected members compete at the State Solo and Ensemble Contest.

12 PHS students in District Orchestra

The District 211 Orchestra is comprised of about 60 string and wind players selected from the district's five high schools. Major concerts in the fall and spring plus several special performances highlight the abilities of these students.

Members from Palatine are Ihor Chornij, Laura Domko, Naomi Dotseth, Nathan Dotseth, Amy Gebhardt, Marinelle Gieseler, Gregory Haugh, Monica Hawranek, Lisa Hunt, Eric Ingrim, Paul Ingrim, and Moira O'Hara. They meet seventh hour with Director Nelson Cleary to rehearse for concerts, sight read, and listen to pieces.

Students also take private lessons with Dr. Cleary.

Music arranged especially for PHS

A world premiere performance by the combined symphonic band and choir brought down the house as the grand finale of the Spring Concert.

Early in the year, the Symphonic Band and A Cappella Choir sold Christmas ornaments to raise money to commission a composer to create a piece especially for them. After much consideration, Mr. David Reiser, choir director, and Mr. Thomas Trimborn, Symphonic Band director, chose to have a classic orchestral piece arranged for the band.

There are already volumes of great works that are unplayable by a band simply because they were written for orchestra. Mr. Reiser and Mr. Trimborn wanted to open an existing work to band performance rather than to have a new piece created. Mr. Reiser chose two excerpts from Mendelssohn's Symphony No. II, and Merle Issac was commissioned to arrange it.

Mr. Isaac is a well-known and very prolific composer. He had his first piece published in 1935 and has arranged many works for orchestra and band. He also taught and published his own series of lesson books for string instruments. Mr. Issac completed the Mendelssohn arrangement after 20 hours of work.

The directors and Mr. Issac are proud to have made this classic piece available for the first time to performance by band and choir. The men stress the importance of combined performances by band and choir because too often choral and instrumental groups do not interact at the high school level.

Also, the motivating force behind the project was the fact that young performers usually forget the importance of the composer/arranger. Because Mr. Issac visited the school several times and attended the concert, students found the commissioned music to be a great learning experience.

Reiser introduces musical, Slow Down, Sweet Chariot

As the curtains parted, Mr. David Reiser, the music department chairman, anxiously awaited the premier of his eleventh musical, Slow Down, Sweet Chariot, written with Mr. Jack Sharkey.

"It's gratifying for any playwright to see his creative efforts come alive on stage. After all, that's why he goes through the time and hard work it takes to write the play in the first place," said Mr. Reiser, "but to have it so superbly done as was the case of Slow Down, Sweet Chariot is an unspeakable joy. I salute the cast, crew, and staff for their marvelous production of Jack's and my musical."

A combination of music, drama, and comedy told the story of Kitty Shannon and her bride-to-be daughter, Joan. Kitty, while busy making plans for her daughter's wedding, suffers a fatal heart attack. Her guardian angel wishes to bring her to heaven, but Kitty refuses, claiming that Joan needs her help. While arguing, they discover that Joan's groom, Norman, was marrying her for her money and was in love with another woman. As it turned out, all of the characters' problems were resolved, and everyone was happy once again.

With the help of Mr. Larry Peterson, Mr. Joseph Lechner, and Miss Michelle Williams, the entire cast and crew made Slow Down, Sweet Chariot a show to be remembered.

Thespians honors theatre people

The International Organization of Thespians recognizes the elite in theatre work and honors them with membership. Every aspect of theatre is represented in this group: performing, technical, and artistic.

In order to be a Thespian, one must have 150 hours of stage experience, which is equal to ten points. An honor Thespian has 60 points or 9000 hours of stage experience. Honor thespians include Evonne Kyriazes, Mike Phillips, Lynn Krueger, Sue Todd, Phil Ridarelli, Robin Schmoldt, Karen Heselbarth, and Jeanie Collins. Those still working on membership requirements are drama club members. There are 20 drama club members and 40 Thespians including President Dave Bazant.

Accompanied by the Drama Club, Thespian Troupe 1017, under the guidance of Mr. Joe Lechner, seeks to enrich the theatre experience of students by taking special trips to observe professionals, and by attending workshops.

People behind the scenes

The "people in black" are the tie that binds the performers to the audience. Without the strong members of stage crew, performers would have no setting on which to base a play, no props with which to convey meaning, no lights under which to be charming, and no costumes with which to be clothed.

Mr. Lechner, stage crew sponsor, feels that the crew has come a long way since he came here three years ago when members had little background and not much equipment.

Intensity of Death of a Salesman captured

Capturing the intensity of Arthur Miller's Pulitzer Prize winning play Death of a Salesman is extremely difficult for professionals let alone for high school actors. Yet this task was undertaken and successfully accomplished by the cast and crew of the fall play.

The drama deals with the unsuccessful salesman, Willy Loman, as he weaves through present and past in an effort to discover what caused his failure and the failure of his favorite son Biff. The music, lighting, and staging reflected these time changes.

Happy, the younger son, ignored by his father, becomes furious when his mother tells him that Willy has been trying to kill himself. Willy's misguided dreams of success causes him to lose his job. Willy's belief that Biff has been unsuccessful to spite Willy causes tension between father and son.

Biff finally realizes Willy's life has been based on lies and tells his father that he had no intention of spiting him, but, in fact, loves him. This fact causes Willy to offer the ultimate sacrifice. Convinced that his life insurance will provide Biff with the $20,000 he needs, Willy commits suicide.

Happy cannot accept his death, for to do so would be to admit that his own dreams of success are as misguided as Willy's were. Biff, however, understands, forgiving Willy, and is finally free to be himself.

Director Larry Peterson, calling the production "the most satisfying single work I've done at Palatine" was delighted at how well it was received by the audience. Peterson added, "This is the single most talented group of actors I have ever worked with, and I've been directing for 22 years."

Senior Mike Phillips, who played Willie, said, "Death of a Salesman was the most difficult and most rewarding show I've ever been in."

WLS's Brandt Miller visits WSKY

Radio Club established a definite personality by broadcasting not only music, but also weather and morning announcements. A major goal of the club members is to please the student body. This is accomplished by playing the songs that students request.

The quality of the station is constantly improving because of the efforts of the ten students and Sponsor Mr. Jeff Butzen. The club meets approximately every other Thursday.

A special visit from WLS disc jockey Brandt Miller was an important occasion for the station and the school.

Working on the radio station gives the members good experience and may enable them to get a job at a larger radio station. For example, Tim Adkins a radio club member works at WVVX, 103.1 FM, where he is an engineer and may later be a disc jockey.

Dance groups work hard year round

Orchesis, now in its twenty-third year, performs in Dance Show, Royal Rally, Turnabout assembly, and V-Show. The 17 girls do their own choreographing and practice Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays after school, and often an additional two to three evenings a week before a performance.

The officers include Ann-Marie Bo-Hansen, president; Joelle Dreyfus, vice-president; Karen Grisco, secretary/treasurer; and Jill Slipper, costume chairman.

The Dixie Dance Kings, male dancers, performed a dance medley from West Side Story with Orchesis members in V-Show.

Dance Club is a training group for Orchesis. The girls are not required to try out, and beginning dancers and more experienced dancers work together two days a week after school. The 16 members performed two numbers in Dance Show. They also performed during halftime at a sophomore basketball game.

The key to the dance show was variety, ranging from the opening number America Can't Stop Dancing, a historical review of American dance crazes, to the first waltz from Swan Lake, a toe dance performed by Kelly Purcell and Chris Johnson. Also included were jazz, disco, rap, and modern dance numbers.

Two numbers, choreographed by Ms. Kate Phillippe, were performed by the dance club.

Keeping with tradition, two former Orchesis members, Pat Andriano and Launa Porzio, were invited back to perform a duet.

Great American talent displayed in

From group acts to solos, and from music to drama, the students and directors put together the Greatest American V-Show, which will be remembered by audiences as a most enjoyable and unique performance.

There were many newcomers to the stage as well as some familiar faces which were recognized by many.

Some favorite acts included Great White North, Blackouts, and Soul Man by the Blues Brothers. Other performances such as Officer Krupke, Teach Your Children Well, a duet by Greg Reynolds and John Lundin, and the energetic dance to Fame by Kelly Purcell were well received by the audience. Also performing were Madrigal, Chorale Ensemble, Stage Band, and Orchesis.

The title of the show and the variety acts were tied together by the Continuity skits.

Hard work and dedication pay off

Hard work and deciation have certainly paid off for the Forensics team. This year's team captured fifteen trophies plus medals at various competitions against contending high schools.

Early each Saturday morning, September through March, the team traveled by bus to competitions. Forensics coaches, Mrs. Rita Shaheen, Mrs. Carol Bentivigna, and Mrs. Phyllis Tantilla helped members perfect skills before their individual events. The coaches also sacrificed Tuesday afternoons and other periods of free time to aid team members.

Forensics not only gives students the necessary skills needed for theatrical performances, but also gives members experience in communication. Senior, Greg Reynolds, says foren-

Oklahoma: a major production

Only two days after the final performance of Variety Show the performing arts department held tryouts for Oklahoma. The musical covered all aspects of the theatre including acting, vocal and instrumental music, dancing, stage craft, costuming, and technical art.

In order to receive a part in the script, students must try out in three areas. Taught by Miss Michelle Williams, the students are given a short time to learn a dance and then audition. As well as dance, singing and acting auditions are also held.

After Mr. Larry Peterson, director, and Mr. David Reiser, choral director, have chosen the cast, rehearsals begin. They are held twice a week and gradually become more frequent as it gets closer to the performance. Rehearsals are held for different groups, such as dancers and choruses. Before everyone can rehearse together, lines must be learned and within one month the lines of the musical are memorized.

While dancers, singers, and actors are busy practicing, costumes and setting are being made and pit band practices the orchestral music.

In order to put together a musical such as Oklahoma much time and effort must be put forth by both students and directors.

Inexperience led to 0-9 record; Coach resigns

Team spirit provided by tri-captains Tom Cole, Brad Hacker and Ken Anderson kept the team alive during their 0-9 season.

Despite a year-long weight training program designed to prepare the young team for the season, the inexperience of the mostly junior team stifled many near-victories. Quarterback Ed Cheatham and Runningbacks Brad Hacker and John Null could not get the offense moving. The team averaged seven points per game. Cheatham completed 59 of 169 passes for a total gain of 733 yards.

Senior Brian Seiter established a new school defensive record of six quarterback sacks. Senior Brian Blome also played a good defensive season. Senior Tom Cole was elected MVP, and Seiter and Joe Tragesser, junior, shared the most improved player award. Because the Varsity team had a losing season, Coach Roy Schodtler resigned his position at the end of the season. (continued on next page).

Frosh teams spirits high

Coach Don Crandall's Freshman A team ended their season with a record of 4-3-1. The team's high spirit contributed to their victories.

Brian Abry received the Steve Rose Memorial Award for the best, most dedicated Frosh A player. The Frosh B team gave the award to Glen Sieroslawski.

The Frosh B team, coached by Mr. Steve Whited, played a 3-5 season. A victory against Wheeling created momentum for the final games. Three completed touchdown passes by Quarterback Sieraslawski and Receiver Steve Rossini provided the points for the 24-14 win.

Varsity tennis finishes 8-4

Captains Mary Olson and Lisa Rapacz led the Varsity tennis team to a victorious season.

Despite the rained out games at Waucanda and Sacred Heart, the team concluded with a conference record of 8-3. The team went on to capture third place at the Fenton Invitational. In their most important meet of the season, the girls squeezed by Rolling Meadows, defeating them four to three.

Coach Bob Caroll said, "We will lose a lot of talented seniors, but with the success of the JV program, we should be able to continue in the right direction."

The JV tennis team closed their season with an overall record of 9-3.

The team's attitude was a key to their triumphant season, which included their hard-earned victory over Fremd.

Varsity Kickers miss advancing by one point

The last game of the Varsity season was one of the longest finishes in IHSA history. The game against second-ranked Forest View started at 7:30 p.m. and finished at 11:15 p.m. after four overtimes and a decisive 24 penalty kick shoot-out. The team missed advancing to the state competition on the twenty-fourth kick, losing the game 12 to 11.

The Kickers ended with an overall winning season. The Michael Hogan Memorial Tournament was played at home, and the Pirates won the invitational tourney, despite the freezing rain and mud.

The team, however, did suffer two major defeats. The first, versus Wheeling, touched off a chain of losses leading to the Celtic Cup competition which was lost to Fremd.

The season record was 12 wins, six losses, and two ties. The team scored a total of 66 goals, tying the school's season record for goals let in. Varsity goalies Steve Moe and Dean Herndon shared six shutouts.

Rick Ruzbasan, Jeff Herndon, and Doug Steffans were the tri-captains. Rick Ruzbasan finished with 22 goals this season, and a school record of 51 goals and 18 assists in his Varsity career. Ruzbasan was named All-Conference, All-Area, and All-Sectional.

The Michael Hogan Award for best defensive player was awarded to Jeff Herndon. Also, Coach Rod Gibbs was elected to serve as President of the Illinois High School Soccer Coach Association in the upcoming season. (continued on next page)

The Junior Varsity team, an expansion of the Varsity team, played a successful second season. Coach Rick Quaintance guided the team to post an impressive 9-1-4 season record.

Coach Quaintance observed, "The attitude of the team was great when we started, but when we started to beat powerhouse schools like New Trier, Oak Park, and Fremd, the spirit really rose."

Super season for Girls' Soccer

The Girls' Varsity team, although troubled with a few injuries, was able to finish the season with a record of 11-1-4.

One of the highlights of the season was the game against Somonouk in which they broke the school scoring record for girls' and boys' soccer by scoring 17 goals.

In their game against Hoffman Estates, the girls rallied to a 3-3 tie, scoring all their goals in the last few minutes of the game.

The team had much strength and spirit which was reflected in Kris Jackson, who won the Most Inspirational Player award, and Stephanie Schulewitz, who recieved the Most Valuable Player award.

Since the team consisted of many strong juniors, Coach Bob Austin feels the outlook for next year is promising.

21st ranking at state meet disappointing

Despite having to wear the girls' uniforms and spikes, the Varsity boys placed third in state sectionals. The boys left their equipment on the bus, and the driver inadvertently took it with him when he left for a cup of coffee.

Led by most valuable player Andy Estes, the undefeated team finished second in the Mid-Suburban League Conference. The team went on to win the District meet at Fremd. The third place rank at Sectionals qualified the runners to participate in the state meet.

Junior Andy Estes placed 21st at state with a time of 15:01:00. Kevin Dahm ran as the Pirate number-two man and finished 93rd. Steve Alabana, Matt Caviolo, Mike Hogan, and Team Captain Robert Barococy also ran in the state meet.

The season record was 9-0. The most significant win during the regular season was a first place at the Crete-Monee Invitational, the largest meet in the Midwest.

Third in the MSL Championship, sophomore runners completed the season with a 6-3 record. They were the only team to beat Buffalo Grove in dual meets. Freshmen finished with a season record of 4-3.

Varsity Netters capture first in conference

Playing with only two seniors, the Varsity volleyball team netted many firsts by attaining an impressive 37-7-2 overall record, finishing second place in the MSL, and capturing their first state tournament trophy ever.

The Pirates also captured two tournament championships. The first was at the University of Wisconsin 16 team Badger Invitational where the team beat both the 1980 Wisconsin State Champ and runner-up. The second was the District 211 Invitational. For the second consecutive year, the Pirates went the entire tournament without losing a game.

"In general, the Pirate success revolved around team play on both offense and defense," said Coach Ken Sutala. "Each girl realized what her role was and executed in harmony with the total team picture."(continued on next page)

Girls' CC largest in state

For the sixth straight year, Palatine has had the largest girls' cross country team, with 38 runners, in the state.

"We are proud of this tradition, and we hope it will continue," said Coach Pat Gleason.

The girls finished sixth in the conference with a 5-4 season record, and Senior Jackie Luzinski qualified for state competition by placing second in the conference meet.

Facing the toughest competition in the state at the sectional meet, the girls finished sixth out of 20 teams. They beat Forest View, the South Division Champs, and Hoffman Estates, their arch-rival.

Cheerleaders promote school spirit

Cheerleaders worked together to provide school spirit at many sporting events.

The football, soccer, basketball, and wrestling squads combined their efforts during pep rally performances. Before important games the cheerleaders put large banners in the gym hallway to encourage student attendance and to fire up the team.

The girls tried to get the crowd involved in cheers to support the players and drown out the opponent's cheerleaders. Through much dedication and effort the squads preserved Palatine's tradition of spirited cheerleading.

The girls' practices began in the summer and continued throughout the year. During these workouts the squads put together new cheers, practiced their mounts, and worked on perfecting their sharpness, precision and timing.

These workouts paid off in the annual Palatine cheerleading competition where the Pirate cheerleaders earned many high scores. Their many awards were proof of Palatine's hard-earned reputation as one of the best cheerleading squads in the state.

Poms host state competition

The Pirateers began their long season in mid-July when they attended a summer camp. The girls were very successful at camp and brought back many ribbons and a trophy to display at the school.

The football season arrived quickly, and the squad worked closely with the marching band.

In the fall Pirateers were busy preparing for the NCA Sweepstakes, Badgerette, and Rich Central competitions. The girls performed kickline, dance, and originality routines.

During the basketball season the squad entertained the half-time crowds with spirited shows. Accompanied by the pep band, Pirateers tried to keep the enthusiasm running high in the stands.

The highlight of the year was hosting the state competition.

Flags delight halftime crowds

The Piradettes expanded their Color Guard into a 12 girl JV corp. This new squad is the first of its kind at Palatine.

These girls still perform the duties of a color guard by presenting the flags and carrying the marching band banner. The new squad provided entertainment during the halftime of the JV basketball games.

The Piradettes were busy too. They began practicing over the summer and attended a camp. The girls were very successful at summer camp, and the squad was awarded a trophy for its superior performance.

As the year progressed, the Piradettes created many dramatic and original routines. Their halftime shows were one of the highlights of the varsity football and basketball games.

After the winter sports ended, the squad prepared for many vigorous competitions. These contests were held at Stillman Valley and Downers Grove High Schools. Palatine had the honor of hosting the state competiton.

Varsity advances to super-sectionals

The varsity basketball team earned 20 wins for the second straight year.

The varsity team "came as close to reaching their potential as a team as any other team as long as I've been here," said Coach Ed Molitor.

The players first realized their potential when they defeated Buffalo Grove 39-37 in double overtime. Buffalo Grove was ranked among the top ten teams in the Chicago area. After defeating Buffalo Grove a second time, the team claimed first place in the league.

Victories in the conference and district tournaments allowed the varsity team to advance to regionals where they defeated Hoffman Estates. This permitted the team to go on to sectionals against Elk Grove.

The key players were John Mosak, Tom Carlucci, Todd Peterson, Rick Brandt, Mike Grensing, Jim Martin, Tom Cole, and Ed Cheatham.

Soph improve late in season

The sophomore basketball team had a strong finish.

Although the conference record was 3-7, the sophomores raced to a season record of 9-12. Six of the last eight games were victories. The team lost by no more than five points in any game.

"The team improved as the season progressed, and they played very well," commented Coach Don Crandall.

Freshman teams have losing season

The Frosh A basketball team, coached by Mr. John Netzer, posted a 5-13 season record. Although they had a disappointing season, the team did beat Fremd twice. The team also defeated Lake Park with a last-second basket by Pat Mogge, capturing the consolation championship of the Fenton Tournament.

The most disappointing of all the basketball levels was the Frosh B team with a season record of 0-15.

The team finished last in the conference. The closest game was their loss to Fremd, 36-47.

Coach Scott Green noted that the team practiced hard and had the determination to go out on the court and play with intensity.

Anderson places 11th in state

The girls' gymnastics team, coached by Sandy Oldham, Cheri Wilcox, and Terry Theobald, wrapped up their season with an impressive record of 9-2. Their season high score was 108.50. The gymnasts were medal winners or qualifiers twenty times this season.

After the team finished fifth in conference, Lynn Anderson, Betsy Clifford, Courtney Jackson, and Michele McDaniel went on to become IHSA Sectional Qualifiers. Anderson, the most valuable gymnast, continued on to state where she placed eleventh on the uneven bars.

The J.V. and Frosh squads both finished their seasons with a record of 7-1 as well as both placing second in the MSL Invitational. Patty English was the leading scorer for the J.V. squad, while Christine Bauman was the top scorer for the frosh.

Captain Sue Scardina, a senior, is the only member of the nine person varsity squad who will not return next year. With so many experienced gymnasts returning, next season looks promising for girls' gymnastics.

Girls place 2nd in MSL North

Under the name "Merickel Workers," the girls' basketball team finished off the year with a much improved record of 8-4. Last year the girls were in last place with a record of 5-19, but this year they came back to an impressive second place in the MSL North. Their defeat against Buffalo Grove assured the girls of their second place standing.

Sheppard brothers and Meza go downstate

The wrestling team repeated another successful season with a record of 18-2. Both Mitch Sheppard, with a 40-0 record, and his brother Ken, with a 39-0 record, went downstate. Rick Meza ended the season with a 39-2 record and also advanced to state.

The Palatine Holiday Tournament was won by Palatine with the Sheppard brothers clinching first. Palatine also took first in the Sycamore Tournament with John Collins, Steve Boschan, and the Sheppard brothers finishing first and Brian Blome taking second.

Palatine surprised everyone by taking second in the Fenton Tournament with a score of 101.5.

In the North Divisional Conference Championship, Palatine swept first place. Mitch Sheppard and Rick Meza both took first in this competition enabling them to become the first Pirate wrestlers to win three consecutive Conference titles. Overall in the MSL, Palatine placed second.

In the District meet, Palatine finished first and eight wrestlers advanced to the Sectional competition.

At the state meet Rick Meza and Mitch Sheppard finished fifth.

It was another great year for JV wrestling.

Division I had a record of 15-1, while Division II completed its season with a record of 9-1.

In the Black Mark Invitational Tourney, JV wrestlers won easily with 10 out of 12 wrestlers becoming individual champions. Some of the outstanding wrestlers were Ken Ryan, Yngvar Brynildssen, and Pete Kneedler, with records of 9-1-1, 12-1-1, and 13-3, respectively.

Coach al Berman knows next year will be successful because, "Palatine just has good wrestlers."

Swimmers place 15th in state

The varsity swim team enjoyed new-found success under the direction of the new coach, Mr. John Bolger.

The first meet of the season in which Palatine defeated St. Viators 95-73 proved to the team that they could beat the best teams in the area. The swimmers went on to place fourth in the district meet and fifth in the MSL conference.

Senior and team captain Mike Murray competed in the state meet in the 100m butterfly and the 200m IM and placed 15th. His national qualifying times at state won him All-American consideration.

Suspensions plague hockey club

The Pirate hockey club held first place in the league until regulation infringements caused the hockey board to suspend Coach Bill Carney and Captain Paul Carney.

The game against Hoffman Estates was officiated by illegal, under-age referees. Because of this, Coach Carney refused to sign the scoresheet at the end of the game. As a result, Coach Carney was suspended for the rest of the season. The balance of the schedule was coached by Mr. Smith.

In the same game, Captain Paul Carney, goalie, was issued a two game suspension for fighting after he hit a Hoffman player who had already hit another Palatine player. After serving his suspension, Paul Carney chose not to play in the play-offs.

The team advanced to the state tournament even though their regular coach and team captain did not participate in the play-offs. Although both Bill and Paul Carney were allowed to participate in the first game of the state tournament, the Pirates lost to New Trier. The club finished in third place in their league.

Outdoor sports clubs plan trips

Outdoor survival and nature adventures are experienced by members of the adventure club.

The club's experiences include trips to Warren Sand Dunes and Mathissen State Park in Michigan, to Eagle Cave, Wisconsin, and cross-country skiing in February. Also, the group went rock climbing in Devil's Lake State Park, Wisconsin.

Although ski club had close to 50 enthusiastic members, they managed only four trips.

Ski trips were limited by the severely cold weather and high prices. Equipment rental and lift ticket cost $17.00 despite discounted group rates. The price prevented many renters from participating in more than one outing.

The highlight of their activities was an all day trip to Devil's Head Mountain, Wisconsin, which was attended by 42 skiers.

Varsity club boosts spirit

The Pirate Varsity Club reorganized and once again became active after a year's absence.

Under the guidance of Mr. Pat Gleason, athletes holding a varsity letter met last spring to plan summer activities, such as two car washes in July. President Scott Burris's leadership made these two car washes a huge success.

Club members earned points toward their varsity sweaters by working at the car washes, selling concessions, participating in a paper drive, and attending school athletic events. They wore their sweaters on the days of big games. These sweaters made the halls more colorful while reminding students to attend the events.

A major goal of Varsity Club was to increase school spirit and support athletics. Varsity Club was a welcome sight at competitions with a small attendance. The enthusiastic club members supported many different teams throughout the year.

The Pirate Varsity Club gave Palantine's spirit a much needed boost.

Palatine hosts 50th Relays

Carl Megel and Gerald McElroy founded the Palatine Relays 50 years ago. Megel was inspired by the success of the 1932 PHS track team to organize a local relay meet in Palatine.

The first Palatine Relay meet was held on April 29, 1933. Seven high schools sent a total of 51 athletes to participate in the meet. Megel and McElroy measured and marked the lanes on the morning of the meet as no funds were available for services or awards.

Relays has grown to become the oldest outdoor track and field invitational in the history of Illinois. The largest meet was held in 1968 when 56 schools and 1,128 boys competed. Girls competition was added in 1976. The fiftieth running of the Relays included 23 girls' teams and 16 boys' teams.

Highlighting this historic event, Carl Megel returned to participate in the ceremonies. Several past Palatine track stars, including Bill Bahnflet, Andy Merutka, Mark Visk, Tom Johnson, and Scott Grimes, also returned to celebrate the 50th anniversary.

The boys' and girls' teams from East St. Louis Lincoln finished first in the meet. Palatine boys placed fourth while the girls finished tenth.

Palatine won medals in the following events: Mike Hogan, second in steeple chase; Ken Anderson, third in shot put; Greg Nowacki, Steve MacTavish, Robert Barkocy, and Chris Martin — first in distance medley; frosh-soph sprint medley, second; shuttle hurdle relay, fourth; two-mile relay, fourth; Matt Caviolo, sixth in two-mile; Chris Martin, sixth in mile.

The pep assembly on Friday raised student enthusiasm for the meet. The assembly included relay races between teams from each class. The Relay Queen and her Court were also crowned at the assembly. The girls were nominated by the boys' track team and elected by the entire student body. Relay Queen Mary Kay Clapps and her attendants distributed awards at the meet Saturday.

Track team rebuilding

The boys' track team got a late start on their season since two of their first meets were cancelled due to snow.

Despite the cancellations the young team, consisting mainly of sophomores and juniors, was determined to work hard and do well. After much practicing the boys felt they were mentally and physically ready for the 50th Annual Balatine Relays.

Tri-captains Greg Nowacki, Bob Barkocy, and Steve MacTavish, supported the hard-working but good-spirited team throughout their season.

Coach Fred Miller felt that experience helped two valuable members of the team, Greg Nowacki and Matt Pancamo, since they both competed at state last year. Distance runner Chris Martin was also a key person for the team.

Coach Miller described this as "a rebuilding year" since the team lost several good seniors last year. He also said the boys should be a tough team next year.

Girls' track: tough team

The girls' track team began their season on a high note by winning 26 of their first 27 meets. They came in fourth in the East St. Louis tournament which was a big win for the girls.

Coach Pat Gleason felt his team worked harder than any other school. Their tradition of being a hard working team has built up their confidence. The combination of confidence, good attitude and encouragement from one another has helped he team win the last three conference duel meets.

Seniors Janet filar, Jackie Luzinski, and Nadine Dahm, who set a new school record in the high jump, were an important part of the team. Junior Liz Potempa was also a valuable member with her performance in the hurdles.

According to Coach Gleason most of the team will be returning next year, so the girls will once again be a tough team to beat.

Gymnastics has slow season

Inhibited by the small size of the team, boys' gymnastics had a slow season.

The key members of the team were Gene Hass and Captain Brian Harrington. Hass competed on the rings and pommel horse, and Harrington competed in all-around.

The most exciting meet of the season was a win over Barrington by just a few hundredths of a point.

The team expects to finish fifth in their league.

Wide variety of intramural sports

The intramural sports program enjoyed a high level of participation in its second full year.

The program is open to all students and faculty and provides good-natured competition in both team and individual sports. Underclassmen and upperclassmen are usually assigned to separate leagues to insure balanced skill levels. Winning teams and individuals are awarded IM T-shirts.

Sports in the IM program are flag football, 12" softball, golf, Halloween Fun Run, volleyball, indoor wiffleball, basketball, free throw and hot shot tournament, ping pong, floor hockey, bowling, badminton, 16" softball, one-on-one outdoor basketball, and tennis.

The games are officiated by paid student officials who are first trained to officiate the various sports. Officials' wages are based on the number of training sessions attended and on experience. They are evaluated by the captains of the teams they officiate for and continually improve their skills.

The IM program is directed by Mr. Jerry Kublank who said, "The participation in some sports really shows the need for a good program. For instance, about 150 people participated in the flag football leagues."

Speed, hitting pay off in later games

The Varsity baseball team had much potential this season with many outstanding players. Seniors Moranda, Zimmerman, Raess, and Carlucci, along with Juniors Foote and Miguel made key plays during important games.

Crucial teamwork rescued many plays and aided the team's record despite a slow start. The players' two main assets, speed and hitting, paid off in later games.

The team's closeness and willingness to work resulted in excellent team spirit. They spent many hours practicing, refining their techniques, and striving to reach new goals. The players also organized activities outside of workouts.

Coach Bentivegna viewed the team as having the potential to be one of the best teams he has had yet. Prospects for next year look hopeful with many experienced juniors returning.

Tennis rebuilds

The Varsity tennis team was in a rebuilding year according to Coach Jim Marshall and did not expect to have an outstanding season record.

Singles players Andy Salski, Gene Dorsch, and Erik Jeffries saved the team from a dismal season. The toughest competition came from Fremd, Barrington, and Arlington. A win over Arlington early in the season raised team confidence.

The tennis team will be "tons better next year" according to team member Dave Porter.

Bad weather hinders start of season

Even though the varsity softball team did not start off strongly, the Junior Varsity team began their season with three victories in a row.

The main goal of the team was strengthening their pitching. The team was optimistic, even though bad weather prevented many practices.

Nancy Shellander, Stephanie Schulewitz, Charissa Fiantago, Jennifer Leone, Julie Sharapata, and Linda Ernst are key members of the varsity team.

The future for girls softball team looks very hopeful with many experienced juniors returning.

Badminton defeats Arlington

Aided by the fact that Arlington was in a rebuilding year, the badminton team advanced to the top five in the state.

The girls were undefeated in the beginning of the season. They defeated arch-rival Arlington 5-2 early in the season. The Fremd and Prospect teams presented the most challenge for the girls.

The Varsity team won the Palatine and Arlington invitational tournaments. Coach Kathy Crandall said that both the varsity and JV teams are in good position to capture their conference titles.

The outlook for next year is good considering only three of eleven varisty playes are seniors.

The Singing Sam Spitalli

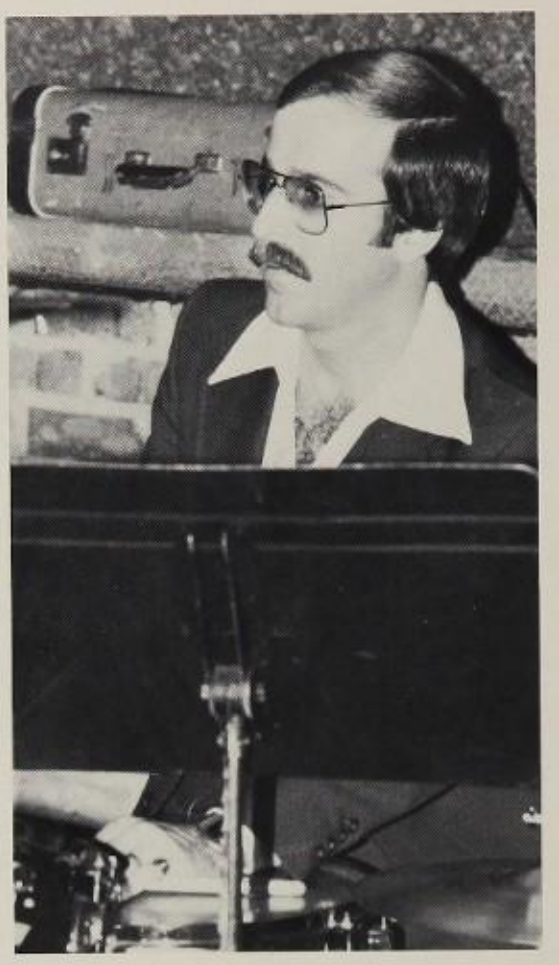
Mr. Sam Spitalli, a member of the English department, is a multi-facered individual. Aside from teaching at Palatine for seven years, Mr. Spitalli has had a long musical career as well.

As a freelance performer, he has been singing and playing the trumpet and drums for over twenty years. His musical career began when he was back in high school.

Mr. Spitalli works with four or five different bands, but most frequently with the band "The Exceptions."

The band consists of an organ/keyboard, guitar, saxaphone, drums, and a singer. They play freestyle music, but Mr. Spitalli says that they don't play much hard rock.

He also performs at weddings.



Mr. Sam Spitalli and his band "The Exceptions" performed at wedding in October, 1978.

Alaska: Kublank's second home

While the eskimos are hostile to the government officials for invading their land, they have welcomed Mr. Jerry Kublank, business department, into their domain three times.

Mr. Kublank has friends and relatives in Alaska with whom he has traveled.

His first trip was in 1975. While there, Mr. Kublank took a ferry up inside the passage. He also spent time in Juneau, Skagway, and in the Ukan.

Mr. Kublank proved to be quite a mountain climber when he climbed Mt. Juneau and Mt. Roberts. He also traveled to Nome, Alaska, which is famous for gold panning. Unfortunately he did not strike it rich!

Dewey enjoys Russian travels

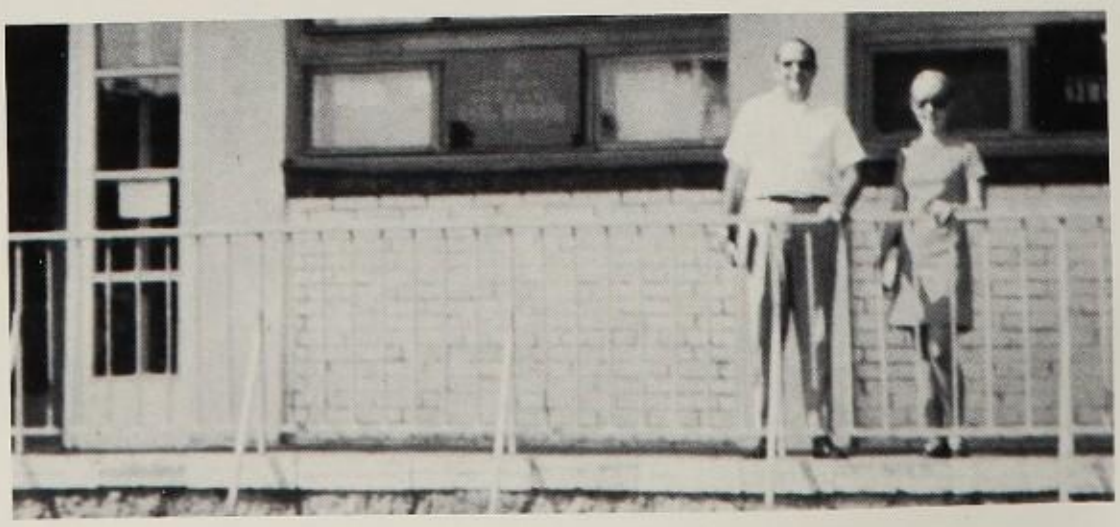
Mr. John Dewey, associate principal, has come to really appreciate the freedom each and every U.S. citizen has. This is because Mr. Dewey has spent a considerable amount of time in the Soviet Union.

Mr. Dewey's first trip to the Soviet Union was in the summer of 1966 when he studied at the Leningrad University for six weeks.

Yet this experience was not all work and no play for him. He also travelled to Moscow where he then took sidetrips to Warsaw, Berlin, London, and Rome.

In 1970, Mr. Dewey returned to the U.S.S.R., this time with his wife and students from Conant High School, where Mr. Dewey taught Russian.

While he has many pleasant memories from his travels, Mr. Dewey remarked, "They have delicious ice cream."



Trethaway raises, breeds horses

Most everyone knows that Mrs. Denise Trethaway will not tolerate any "horsing around" in her classes. Yet this is exactly what Mrs. Trethaway does at home.

Mrs. Trethaway and Bob, her husband, breed, raise, and show registered American Saddlebred Horses. The horses are kept at home which means a variety of "farm chores" must be done daily in addition to the many essays she must grade.

Though first riding a horse in 1974, Mrs. Trethaway now does most of the riding while her husband drives and shows the horses in halter (conformation) classes.

As one might expect, Mr. and Mrs. Trethaway's horses are winners. Mr. Trethaway showed their yearling filly in the halter class at the 1981 Illinois State Fair and placed third in the state.

Clarissa, the Trethaway's mare, was the Illinois Champions Halter Horse for 1981. She will be bred in March 1982, and should have a foal in 1983.

In addition to horses, Mrs. Trethaway also breeds and raises AKC Collies.

Mrs. Trethaway shows Clarissa, the Illinois Champion Halter Horse for 1981, at the Illinois State Fair.

Keppen, Herstedt open store

Teachers certainly do not become teachers for the money. Well, Mr. Dennis Keppen and Mr. Arvid Herstedt, both from the Industrial Ed department, are doing something about this.

They have opened up a T-shirt store, The Waist Up, located in the Town and Country Mall in Arlington Heights. The store has been open since November.

While Mr. Keppen and Mr. Herstedt are at school, their wives manage the store.

Mr. Keppen creates his own silkscreens for the shirts, and he created the red and white T-shirts seen on several varsity team members.

Keep in Touch, Dr. Jones

On October 31, 1981, Dr. Norman Jones, a counselor at Palatine, saw the completion of three years work with the release of his book Keep In Touch.

Jones's book was written to help people communicate better and to help prevent divorces, arguments and fighting.

Jones said that the beginning was the hardest, but finding a publisher was hard too. He sent the book to Prentice Hall, a well known publishing company. His book was refused there, so he sent his book to 30 other companies, and he was refused by all of them.

After he edited the book, with the help of Mrs. Joseph Keenen, he sent copies to Prentice Hall once again. Prentice Hall accepted. Since then, Dr. Jones has appeared on television to discuss his creation.

Miss Masterson's "Close Encounters"

A world-wide traveller is Miss Meridee Masterson, Foreign Language department chairman.

In recent years Miss Masterson has travelled to Spain, Mexico, and Bolivia.

She had some truly exciting moments on all three trips: "I was perched (in car or bus) on the edge of some mountain either due to brake malfunctions, being stuck in mud, or being forced off the road," she said.

A most interesting experience happened during her trip to Spain.

"I took a side trip to Tangiers, The Casbah (Kasbah). Due to my frosted, blond hair, I was warned to stay with the group as Morrocans have "a thing" for U.S. blonds and have kidnapped them for their harems," she explained.

All along the narrow streets were doorways in which men waited for a U.S. blond woman they could grab, she continued. She found that part of the trip quite frightening.

"While there I did meet a snake charmer and allowed him to wrap a snake around my neck, and I met another person who had a herd of camels," she stated.

Night driving in Bolivia is truly bizarre. "At night," she commented, "you don't use headlights except when you approach an intersection! He who turns on his lights first has the right of way!"

She concluded, "Needless to say, I had many harrowing experiences. At least they drive on the same side of the street as we do here."

"We are great
At what we do
We're the class of '82"

The attention of the senior class was focused on graduating. Since the graduation requirements are more strict than in past years, there was not much time for class activities.

Dave Kettelhut and Mark Tracy, president and vice-president of the senior class, arranged to use the cow that stood in front of Uncle Andy's Cow Palace for the class float in the Homecoming parade. Other class functions included coming to school dressed in pajamas, and senior ditch day.

The commencement ceremony was the primary activity of the class. The commencement committee held its first meeting in March. The committee chose the speakers and planned the program of the ceremony.

restrict seniors' activities

In the past, seniors were not forced to take four years of English or final exams after their last semester. Sixteen credits were all that were needed to earn a diploma, and seniors did not have to take swimming in PE.

But this year is different. Not only are seniors required to take four years of English and final exams, to earn eighteen credits, and to take swimming in PE, but the new rules that were imposed on the entire student body dampened senior spirit. The policy of being allowed only three tardies before detentions are issued was an extreme change from last year's policy of being allowed three free tardies per class. Also the non-option halls system went back into effect, so students were only allowed to use the gym hall and the back stairs to the library during actual class time.

Many seniors spent the year trying to beat the system and succeeded enough to have a good time despite the administrative opposition.

Seniors plan future

Senior year has traditionally been a time for planning careers, and the high unemployment rate and troubled economy caused the Class of '82 to make many tough decisions about their futures.

Over 100 colleges sent representatives to PHS in October to discuss academic and financial aid programs with interested students and parents on the annual District 211 College Night. Complicated financial aid programs were explained in detail at a financial aid meeting presented by PPS in January.

The low availability of financial aid and high tuition at private and out of state schools forced many seniors to change their original plans. Many seniors decided to stay in the area to attend Harper or other community colleges. Other seniors spent the last months of school lining up a job to begin full time after graduation.

Changes in social security regulations caused seniors who received benefits to enroll at Harper after the first semester without graduating in order to maintain their benefits. These students met their PHS requirements at Harper and returned to march in the commencement ceremony in June.

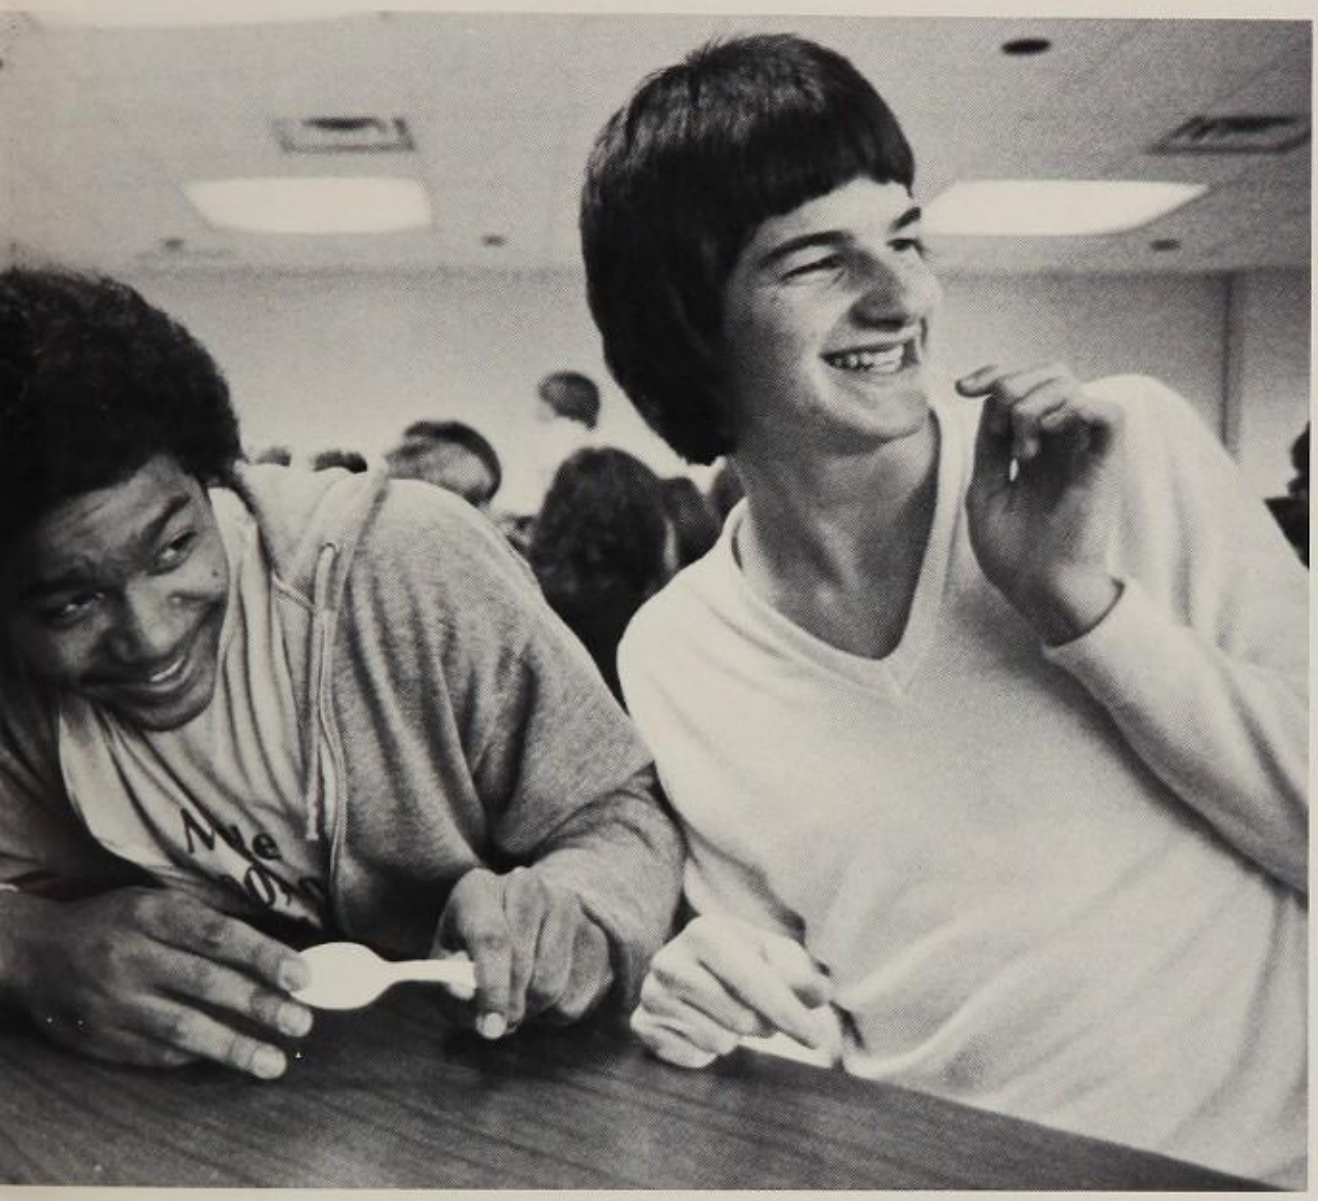
Senioritis sets in early



Senioritis set in early this year.

Since most college bound seniors were accepted early in the second semester, they did not have to worry about grades for most of the second semester. Seniors enjoyed the time they had left with their school friends before they went their separate ways after graduation.

The end of four years of hard work and the upcoming freedom of college life or financial independence raised seniors' enthusiasm and anticipation of graduation.

Dave Goldman: Future Farmer

Because of the absence of farms in this area, most students don't realize that there is a local chapter of Future Farmers of America, yet Dave Goldman dug it out and is the treausrer of FFA for the '81-'82 year.

Dave became a member of FFA through horticulture class at Harper. Dave attends the greenhouse at Harper during 6th and 7th hours. The class learns about cultivating and land scaping through experience. The class won the FFA Building a Community contest last year for planting bushes around the old folks homes.

Ralph Evans: Glider Pilot

Ralph Evans is gliding through training for his future career.

Ralph has been a member of the Civil Air Patrol for almost three years. The patrol is a nationwide auxilliary of the United State Air Force, and members provide emergency service to aircraft in distress.

Last July he attended the Illinois Wing Flight Encampment at Eastern Illinois University. While at camp, Ralph learned to fly a glider and talked to glider pilots from World War II.

Ralph heard of the Civil Air Patrol from an Air Force recruiter and will possibly make the army his career.

Palatine High School and sports are almost synonymous, but Gry Ramstadt was surprised at the amount of after school activity when she enrolled at PHS.

Gry is an exchange student from Norway. There are no after school sports or activities in Norway because teams and activities are sponsored by other organizations.

Gry likes Palatine a lot, but she said it's weird to live with a different family. Gry arrived in the States in August thanks to the American-Scandinavian Student Exchange. She is staying until June 29.

During the winter John trains on his bike indoors using rollers to keep the bike stationary. He is also building a touring bike to use in the spring.

The next tour is planned for just after graduation. He will be biking to Lac du Flambeau, WI., a 720 mile round trip.

Reynolds: Model Builder

Until Greg Reynolds earns a pilot license, he is content to study model aircraft.

Greg has built approximately 100 airplanes, dated in the World War II era. He has many replicas of historically famous aircraft such as Pappy Boyington's Corsair and Butch O'Hare's Wilcat. As he builds the models, Greg studies their design, performance, camouflage patterns, and the strength of the air forces in WWII.

Greg has taken flying lessons and hopes to get his license.

Kim Urso: Figure Skater

Kim Urso has been skating for ten years.

Kim skates with the Chicago Figure Skating Club and is also a member of the United States Figure Skating Club.

Participating in a number of competitions, she has traveled as far as Bowling Green, Ohio, to compete. Kim's trophies fill her room.

In addition to competing, Kim coaches tiny tots at the Woodfield Ice Arena. She has also taught private lessons.

Nidal Haddad: Alter Boy

Nidal Haddad is the head alter boy at St. Michael's Byzantine Catholic Church.

Nidal was elected to the position by the other alter boys in the church. St. Michael's is in Chicago and is the church Nidal attended before he moved to Palatine. Nidal travels to the city every Sunday and Holy Day to help conduct mass. The mass in the Byzantine Catholic Church is given in the Arabic language.

Nidal also led the church youth group.

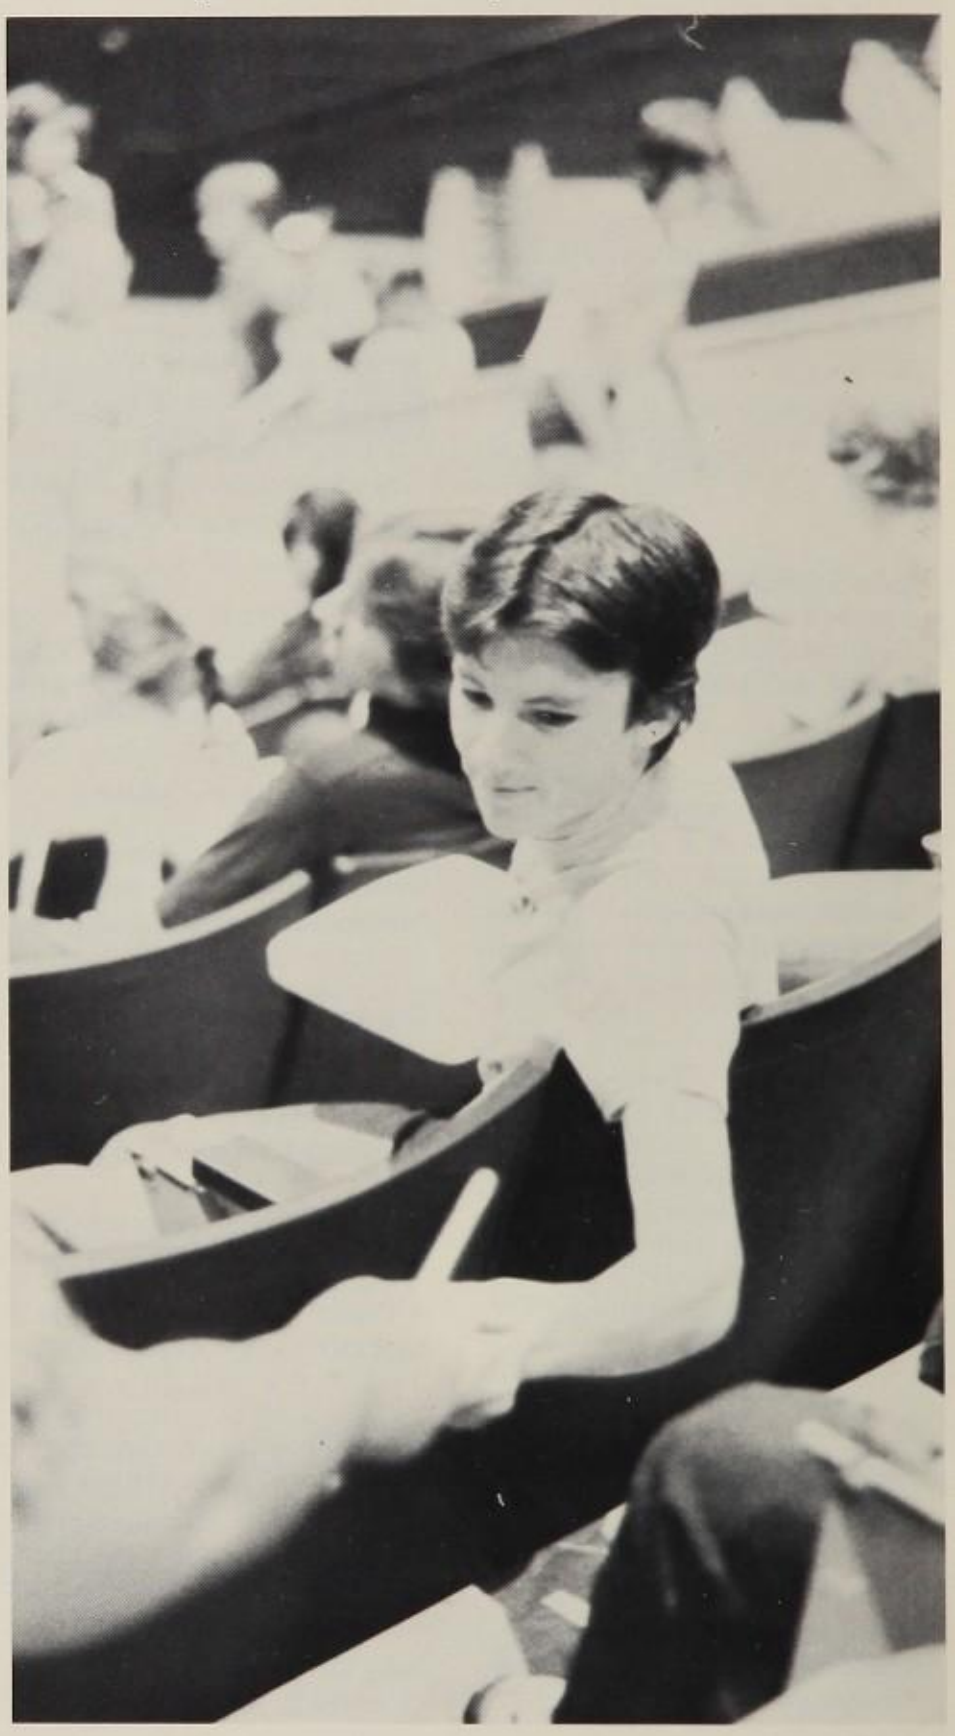
Juniors have fun despite responsibilities



For many juniors this year was filled with pressures and responsibilities, and as one student said, "It was the year." The juniors realized that they were not going to be at Palatine High School much longer, and many tried to get involved and make some contributions.

Juniors suddenly discovered the Career Resource Center when they needed help to choosing a college. "There was more pressure to get good grades because colleges will look at them," observed a student. With their skills and interests in mind, juniors tried to decide which college or career to pursue after graduation.

The year was a special one for many juniors who received their class rings. The status of becoming upperclassmen also brought with it the responsibility of planning Prom '82.

The class officers Michele Wojcieszak, president, and Lorrie Hanson, prom chairperson, with the help of the prom committee chose the theme, favors, decorations, and band for the special dance. There was enough money in the class treasury to pay for prom so no fundraisers were needed.

Another traditional junior activity was standardized testing, and many students participated in the PSAT, DAT, SAT, and ACT tests. Most juniors took American History which is a graduation requirement.

After school more students held jobs than ever before, but they still found time to have fun and go out with friends. Being a part of the working world made the juniors more independent and responsible — not to mention wealthy. Since many of these students also had their driver's licenses, juniors made good use of the parking lot and had fun jangling their car keys in the halls. This was a challenging year, but as one junior said, "Being an upperclassman made it all worthwhile."

Students flock in the halls for the less than successful "send off" for the state competition bound Cross Country team.

Sophomores become firmly established

With a year of high school experience behind them, the sophomores returned to the school with confidence and enthusiasm. They enjoyed their newfound status as sophomores and no longer felt like "the new kinds on the block."

Friday night football games attracted a large sophomore cheering section. The rowdy class filled the stands with much needed school spirit.

Other sophomores could be found behind the scenes working the football concessions. These busy evenings were tiring and hectic, but the spirited class had a good time just being together. The money they earned went to build up the class treasury which will be used for prom funds next year.

For future fundraisers the class officers Vince Rotonda, President; Nancy Replinger, Vice-President; and Jill Hess, Secretary/Treasurer, surveyed the class to determine what products they would like to sell. This class participation in making decisions was a first of its kind at Palatine High School.

Follwing long-established tradition, the accelerated sophomore English students served as guides to the bewildered parents at Open House. When Palatine High School hosted the annual District 211 College Night the sophomores again directed the perplexed crowds. This job involved the responsibility of guiding over 1200 families through the building.

During school hours sophomores were busy in their many required classes. Consumer, Health, and Classroom Driver Education were taken by the majority of the sophomores. "Health class was a lot of fun!" remarked one student. Sophomores felt these mandatory classes brought them closer together and were more relaxed than other classes.

Strong class unity and a lot of spirit were evidence that sophomores really belonged. "Last year everyone made fun of you," noted a student, but this year sophomores had it all together.

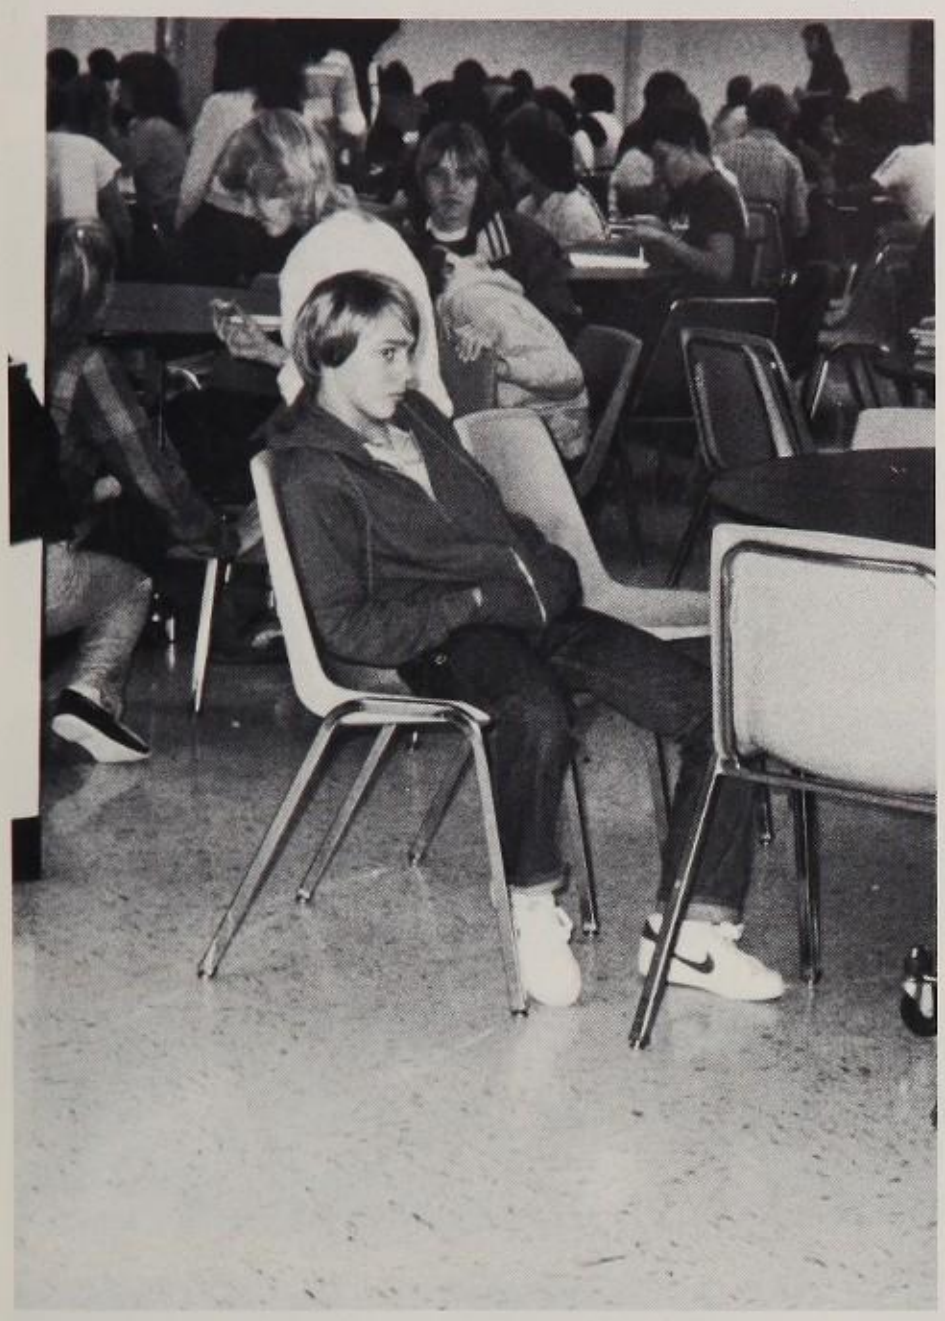
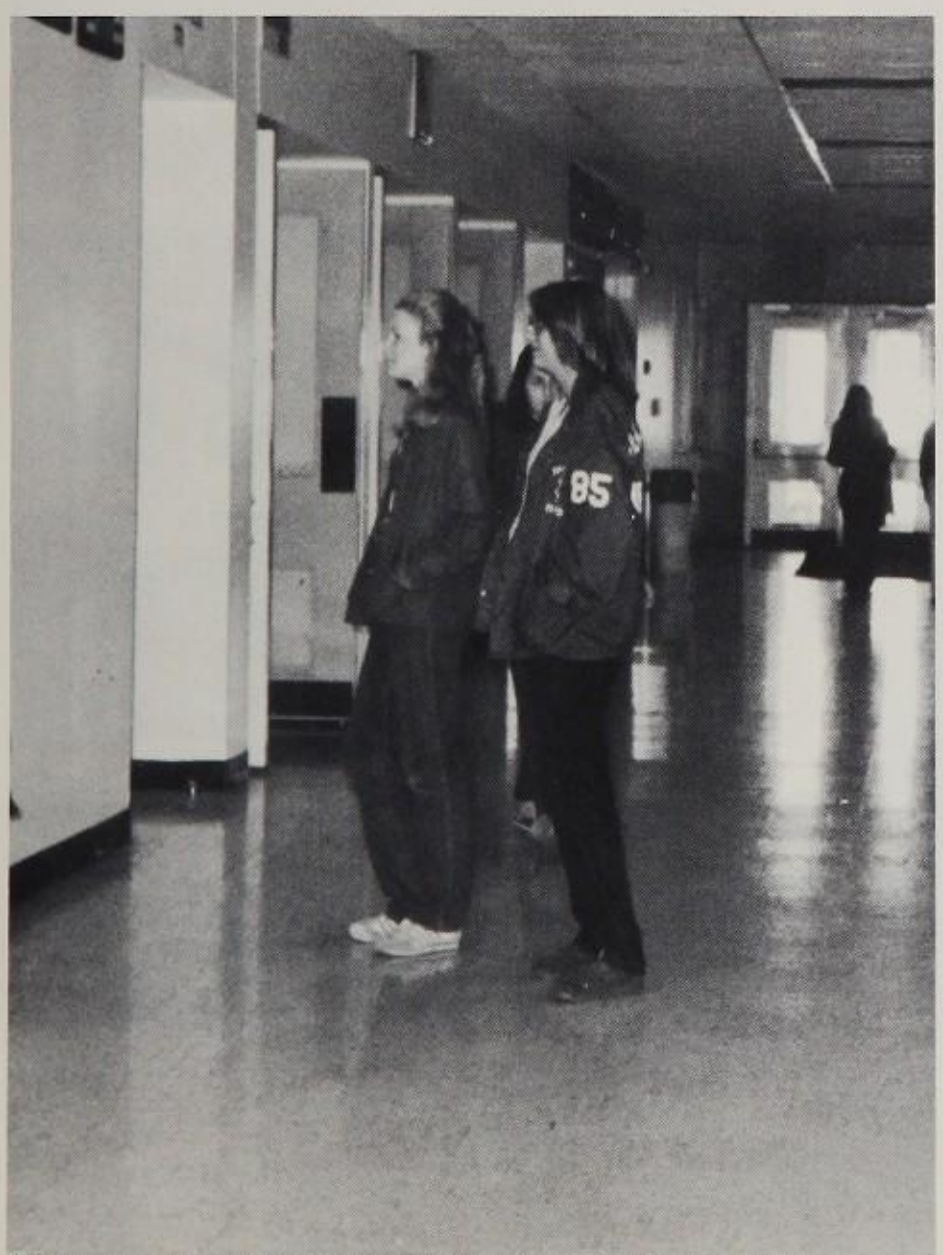
Freshmen successfullly adjust to PHS





This year's freshmen class was the first to take part in a new program designed to improve their learning techniques.

The "How to Study" class met once a week during the study hall hours. At the end of the 12 week program, the freshmen received a booklet on study skills from the Chicago Tribune and a gift certificate from MacDonalds. When asked if the class was helpful, one frosh said, "It probably will be, but right now it's a big waste of time, boring." Another freshman felt that because the students weren't interested, the class didn't hold their attention.

The freshmen still participate in the compulsory study hall program. Some study hall teachers did not allow the popular Rubik's Cube in their class. Although many frosh resented the mandatory attendance, they did get some homework done in the study halls.

In their spare time the freshman class tried to get involved in all types of school activities. Many talented freshmen made important contributions in athletic, performing, and organizational areas.

They also filled the halls with over 500 new faces and received the usual good-natured kidding from the upperclassmen. "Whenever you see freshmen in the halls, they seem to be carrying every book they own!" joked on upperclassman.

Unfamiliar with a new school and its routines, the frosh felt lost at the first all-school assembly. "Nobody knew what was going on," commented a baffled freshman. The young class successfully survived the difficult period of adjustment during which many new friendships developed.

After a slow start freshmen class officers Julie DePuye, president; Katie O'Hara, vice-president; and Dona Deeke, secretary/treasurer organized a fundraiser late in the year. Unfortunately this was one of the only class activities. As one student put it, "The best thing about being a freshman is meeting a lot of new people."

Spotlight, volume 54, was produced by students working after school, and is a publication of Palatine High School, Palatine, Illinois. Taylor Publishing Company printed 2200 copies of this book.

The 1982 Spotlight, a spring delivery book selling for $9, $10, and $15, is printed in Serif Gothic type on 80# enamel paper. Body copy is printed in 10 point type; captions are 8 point; and headlines are either 24 or 30 point.

The cover design is a specialized Taylor computer-generated, four-color graphic chosen by the staff and is printed on black durolith material.

The 248 pages of the book include 16 pages of processed four-color; 10 division pages of red, yellow, green, blue and purple spot color; and 22 pages of red spot color in the senior section. The base ink color is black.

Approximately 70 percent of the photography was student work. The balance, including student and faculty portraits, was done by Root Photographer, Chicago.

Polish workers unite

The closed gates of the Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk, Poland, became a symbol of the spirit of Solidarity, the independent trade union of Poland. It was there that Lach Walesa, the movement's leader, first made his demands for economic, political, and social reforms.

Shortages of food, clothing, and other basic necessities along with the onset of an unusually harsh winter, forced Walesa to organize against the Communist government. After nationwide strikes and food riots, the government finally made some concessions, securing the Poles more freedom than any other nation in the Soviet bloc.

Then suddenly, martial law was imposed by General Jaruzelski. Military authorities arrested thousands of Solidarity members, including intellectuals, artists, former government officials, and finally, Walesa himself. Soldiers used force to clear out resisters, leaving seven dead and hundreds injured.

Behind the Polish military loomed, of course, the shadow of the Kremlin. US-Soviet relations worsened as the Reagan Administration adopted stern economic sanctions against the Soviet Union and the Polish Communist government.

Sadat assassinated

Anwar Sadat, President of Egypt, was assassinated in October of 1981.

Sadat had led his country to war against Israel in 1973, but later he launched a peace initiative which was climaxed by his "sacred mission" to Jerusalem in 1979. This was to proclaim his willingness to live in permanent peace and justice with the Jewish state.

The 1978 Camp David Accords made him the only Arab leader ever to make peace with Israel. The result of this great diplomatic mission was resentment toward him from the Arab world and his assassination.

British Royalty wed

In a fairy tale wedding, Britain's Prince Charles of Wales, stalwart in full dress naval uniform with medals and sword agleam, claimed his beautiful princess, Lady Diana Spencer, on July 28, 1981.

Lady Diana's dress, a well kept secret until the wedding day, was made of ivory tulle with full skirt, puffed sleeves and a 25-foot silken train. A proud nation and dazzled world looked on as the two were bonded in holy matrimony at St. Paul's Cathedral by the Archbishop of Canterbury before 2,500 attendant guests and approximately 750 million television viewers around the world.

Outside people thronged the streets from the cathedral to the palace. This was not surprising, for this regal display of storybook splendor seemed to appease the tragic effects of a bleak summer of unrest in a troubled nation.

WIDE WORLD PHOTOS

Reaganomics

The Reagan Administration pushed radical economic legislation through Congress which abruptly discarded doctrines that have dominated economic thinking since the Great Depression.

President Reagan's new supply-side economic policies aid big businesses, so that in turn, businesses will aid the work force. Increased productivity will, in theory, bring down inflation and eventually create the need for businesses to hire, thus decreasing employment.

Across the board income tax cuts and tax breaks for businesses were instituted to stimulate productivity. In addition, Reagan hoped to bring down the 17% prime lending rate by providing saving incentives such as All-Savers Certificates and Individual Retirement Accounts, both with tax exempt interest.

Federal revenue lost to tax refunds forced Reagan to make major budget cuts in federal programs. Funding cut backs in welfare, public education, and federal guaranteed student loan programs threaten the quality of future public education and the availability of post-secondary education.

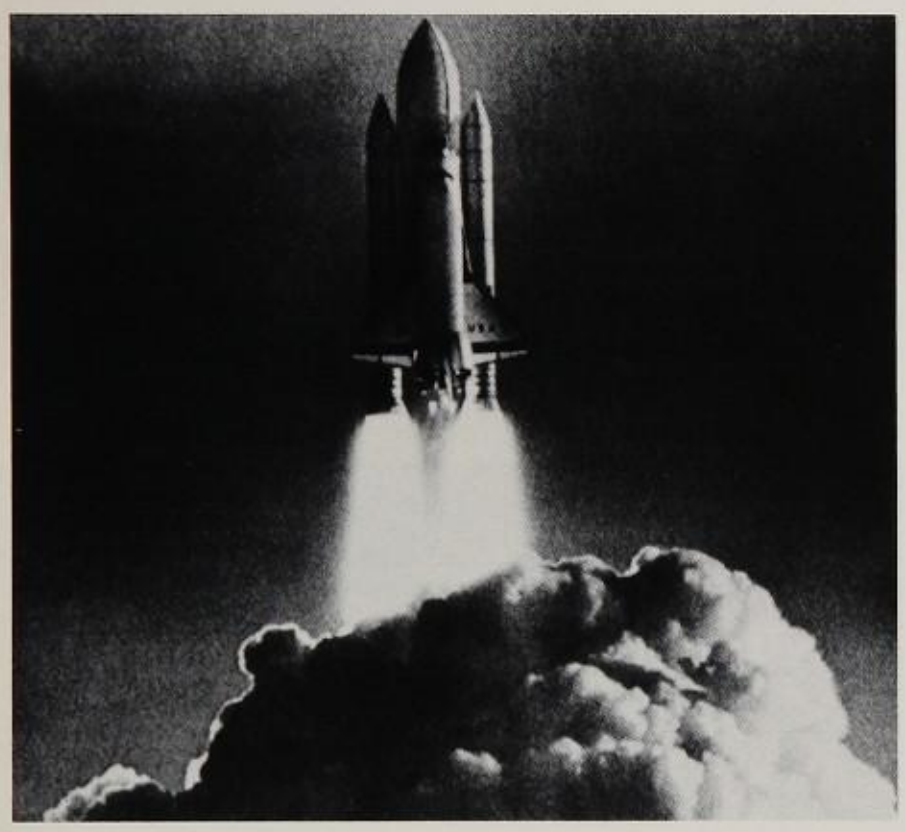
In a complete reversal of New Deal programs, Reagan proposed his New Federalism programs that will return control of welfare to state governments. This proposal met with criticism from governors because the states will also be responsible for raising revenue to cover welfare needs.

Columbia finally launched

The only reuseable spacecraft, the space shuttle Columbia is the most versatile, complicated craft ever to be assembled by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Columbia is designed to lift off like a rocket, and re-enter the atmosphere nose first before landing like an airplane. Weighing 2.7 million pounds, it is controlled by computers loaded with more than 600,000 lines of precise program codes. The craft is powered at lift off by booster rockets which discharge super-heated gasses at the rate of a half-ton per second. The booster rockets jettison once the craft is in orbit.

After two years of delay due to political, financial, and engineering problems, Columbia made its first flight on April 12, 1981, lifting off from the Kennedy Space Center, Florida. The shuttle landed at Edwards Air Force Base, California on the 15th. Columbia was launched again on November 20 with a third flight scheduled for late March, 1982.



Voyager I visits Saturn

The Voyager I satellite enabled NASA astronomers to make detailed observations of Saturn, its rings, and its 15 moons.

The satellite was equipped with high resolution television cameras, and it relayed pictures to earth as it flew past Saturn. The most exciting of the new findings was a picture of braided rings around the planet.

The moons were also characterized through new information. The largest moon, Titan, for example, was found to be wrapped in a dense atmosphere of nitrogen and cosmic debris. Also, Mimas is pockmarked with thousands of craters and is now thought to have been a piece of Saturn itself.

The next Voyager mission will be to Uranus in 1986.

Belushi found dead

Comedian, actor, singer John Belushi mysteriously died on March 5, 1982. The following week, the Los Angeles coroner reported finding toxic amounts of cocaine and heroin in his blood. His sudden death at the age of 33 stunned the public.

After getting his start in Chicago's Second City comedy theatre group, Belushi became famous for his antics as a member of the Not Ready For Prime Time Players on the television series "Saturday Night Live." His characters on the series contributed to the show's top ranking, making it one of the most viewed shows in America. Belushi was also famous for his part of the singing group, the Blues Brothers.

Belushi also starred in such movies as "National Lampoon's Animal House," "The Blues Brothers," "Neighbors," and "Continental Divide," in which he played a dramatic role based on Chicago Sun-Times columnist Mike Royko. He was preparing for another movie when he was found dead in his bungalow at a Hollywood hotel.

I stood at the podium looking out at a room full of blank faces and wondered what to do next. I was nervous and knew none of the people at this first yearbook meeting, but they were sitting in front of me because they were curious about how a yearbook is produced. I quickly learned how to conduct a meeting and how to develop their curiosity into productive interest.

We got off to a late start; this first meeting was not held until the last week of September. While we should have picked the theme for the book before the first day of school, it took us three more weeks and many re-votes to finally decide on "Colorful Spirit." Once the theme was chosen, we really got down to work, and we had a lot of work to do. With the first deadline on November 30, the staff first had to be trained, and 60 pages then had to be completed.

The staff quickly learned all of the connotations of the word "deadline": rushing around gathering information for copy and taking pictures at the last minute; everything desperately needed for production disappearing as the day approached; staying at school until at least ten o'clock at night during the week before the day; staying especially late the night before; eating dinner at school; and returning Monday morning to find the cold, dried remains of Friday's pizza still sitting on the table untouched by the janitors.

After staying at school working on the pages due for the third deadline until one o'clock Saturday morning, I wondered why I ever wanted to edit the yearbook! My friendships with staff members and the feeling of accomplishment I received from my work kept me working enthusiastically. The positive, excited reactions of the staff were also extremely rewarding. The staff was not just a bunch of my friends who I convinced to help me; they were a group fo truly interested people who became my friends. I extend my thanks to every staff member because this book would not have got through production without each person's contribution.

I also thank Mrs. Marci Pearlman and Mr. Gerald Ross for the opportunity to edit this book and for their generous help and guidance; John Kordash for understanding that I was always busy and for helping me when others didn't come through; and, most of all my parents, John and Anna Klis, for their encouragement and support and for their putting up with my late hours, complaints, and messy room.

Leslie Klis, Editor

There were drab days when we lacked spirit.

The canned food drive in December generated only 30 donors. A few pep assemblies were lifeless despite the spirited efforts of the Triad.

Overall, however, 1981-82 was a year full of colorful spirit. Dramatic presentations performed to capacity crowds; enthusiastic fans supported our teams; and the student body raised almost $1300 during Charity Week to aid the United Way.

Palatine High School will continue to have colorful spirit as different students, faculty, support staff, and administrators come and go. Hopefully, the colorful spirit of Palatine High School will stay with these people forever.
